GREAT REVOLUTIONARY OUTBREAK SWEEPS KING MANUEL FROM THRONE

REVOLUTIONISTS ARE IN CONTROL

Portugal's King Reported to Have Taken Refuge on Foreign Ship in Harbor

MANY ROYALISTS ARE SLAIN

Common People Rise Against Aristocrats, who Have Oppressed Them for Ages

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Lisbon has fallen. King Manuel has been swept from his throne and the capital of Portugal is completely in the hands of the revolutionists. This summarizes the Portuguese situation as gathered from the mass of reports that have filtered from that country.

There are still conflicting reports regarding King Manuel but from four distinct sources it is positively reported that the king escaped aboard the Brazilian warship Sao Paulo, and is now on a British warship bound for London.

Several cables received in London all confirm the reported escape of Manual. The palace, from which the blue and green flag of the republicans now waves, is in partial ruins from shots from the warships. All officers and men joined in the revolt.

Machado Assumes Control

Provisional government under the leadership of Dr. Machado has already assumed control, according to unconfirmed dispatches.

While there is no doubt as to the fate of Lisbon, the result elsewhere in Portugal is still uncertain. The Portuguese vice consul at Liverpool received advices from Oporto that the city was quiet which is taken to mean that the city is in the hands of the republicans.

The British cruiser New Castle has arrived at Lisbon and wireless messages from it are momentarily expected.

Badajose dispatches say Manuel took refuge in one of the foreign legations before boarding the Sao Paulo. While political, industrial and social conditions in Portugal are blamed for the revolution it is stated that the movement was hastened by the recent action of the parliament.

Aboard British Ship

MADRID, Oct. 5.—Premier Canalejas said this afternoon that he had received word that King Manuel was aboard a British vessel enroute to London.

The latest report here is that the palace guard was holding out at an early hour today. There has been fighting in Oporto but not of so serious a nature as in Lisbon.

Manuel Has No Nerve

Practically all of the Portuguese troops are now lined up with the revolutionists. A few of the soldiers responded to the call to supress the uprising but the vast majority not only refused to interfere but soon joiner in the rioting.

When Manuel was informed the troops had turned against him he is said to have remarked: "It is all over. Nothing can now check the revolution."

CHURCHES JOIN AGAINST FILMS

At Meeting in M. E. Church Tonight will Frame Petition to Mayor to Stop Show

YOUNG PEOPLE HEAD MOVE

They Start Agitation to Have Sorensen Stop Showing of Jeffries-Johnson Fight

A mass meeting of all the young people's societies in La Crosse will be held in the parlors of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Eighth and Main streets tonight to frame a protest, to be given Mayor Sorensen, against the showing of the Jeffries-Johnson prize fight pictures at the Majestic theater Friday and Saturday nights.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock and the Rev. Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Sixth and King streets, will undoubtedly address the meeting, he being one of the leading spirits in the agitation to get the mayor to prohibit the showing of the films.

Rev. Jones this morning stated that it was not particularly a movement against the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures because, he contends, there is no more brutality shown in them than in many others, but argues that the general revulsion against these pictures, which has taken place throughout the country, makes it an opportune time for La Crosse to put the seal of disapproval on prize fights.

"The showing of the films in the Majestic," said the Rev. Jones this morning, "which is a theater patronized by the better class of society, is to recognize the prize fight as an institution. I don't believe this would express the sentiment of the city as a whole."

The protest will be framed tonight and a copy of it handed to the mayor tomorrow according to the program.

Mayor Sorensen this morning announced that he had received no official notice of the plans of the Young People and would not make a statement until he had sufficient time to look up the matter.

Whether or not the pictures will be shown in La Crosse will in all probability be left to the judgment of Alderman Joseph Houska, president of the common council.

Mayor Sorensen left today on a business trip which may demand his attention until after the days the pictures are to be run. In the event he is absent from the city Alderman Houska will have the authority to permit or prohibit the run of the pictures.

When seen this afternoon Alderman Houska announced that he had no personal objection to their being shown and did not consider it likely that he would interfere.

KING GEORGE WILL ABDICATE

VIENNA, Oct. 5.—King George of Greece is again on the verge of abdicating his throne, according to an interview with him, appearing in the Neu Frei Presse. The only reason the king did not give up his throne in 1909, he is quoted as saying, was that he considered it his duty to his people to remain until the serious involvement with Turkey was settled. The expected improvement in Greece's foreign relations has not materialized and George is said to have decided to turn over the crown to Crown Prince Constantine.

MARRIED TODAY BY REV. CHRISTY

At 2 o'clock this afternoon in the English Lutheran church, Robert Schultz and Miss Mabel Kingston, both of this city, were united in marriage by Rev. W. P. Christy. They were attended by John Schultz and Martha Groskoff.

MOTORS CO. REFINANCED

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Official announcement was made today of the re-financing of the General Motors Company when negotiations were closed for the sale of $15,000,000 first lien notes. These will be used in taking up the indebtedness of the company and its subsidaries, while an additional $5,000,000 issue will be reserved for future use.

The notes were taken up by J. and W. Seligman and Co. and other bankers who under the terms of subscribing for the bonds will be allowed to name a majority of the board of directors of the company.

KING MANUEL OF PORTUGAL

BRODERICK MUST TELL THE FACTS

Ruling of Lorimer Committee Surprises Counsel, and Jack Potter May Refuse

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—State Senator John Broderick was called to the stand before the Lorimer senatorial investigating committee shortly before noon today and notified by Chairman Burrows that he would be expected to testify completely as to his connection with the bribery in the last Illinois general assembly.

Former Senator Dawson, counsel for Senator Broderick, said he would be willing that his client testify as to the jack pot money and would answer questions in general but not in detail. Broderick is now under indictment for bribery in Sangamon county.

Burrows said that the senator would have to testify in full and he will have to answer questions the same as any other witness.

"The chair will protect him as much as possible," said Burrows.

Broderick Surprised

The action of the committee took Broderick's counsel completely by surprise and he asked that he be granted two days to confer with his associate attorney as to whether Broderick should plead his constitutional right. The committee granted him until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The calling of Broderick was a distinct surprise as the committee had apparently hopelessly deadlocked on the question of the admissibility of his testimony for two days.

It was understood they were split strictly on political lines.

Attorney Dawson offered Broderick as a witness, evidently on the supposition that the committee would let him tell only the parts of his story that he chose to relate. Broderick is expected to refuse to answer questions put to him on account of his indictment in Sangamon county.

The same methods will be used in the examination of Browne and Robt. E. Wilson, the third legislators under indictment.

Widow Tells of Money

Wilson was called today but could not be located. Before the committee ruled on the Broderick case Mrs. C. E. Luke, widow of Representative Luke, named as one of the "jack potters" appeared before the committee and told of her husband obtaining $950 sometime in June 1909 from sources unknown to her.

Luke left home without telling her where he was going, she said, and returned with the money.

Representative Homer Shaw told of Browne asking him if he could not vote for Lorimer but asserted that he did not vote for him and did not receive any money.

CATHEDRAL CONSECRATED

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—With the most imposing Catholic ceremonies St. Patrick's Cathedral just freed of a debt of $850,000 was today consecrated by Archbishop Farley.

Participating in the services which began at 6 o'clock this morning and last until noon were Cardinals Vannutelli, Logue and Gibbons, two score archbishops and bishops and fully 200 priests.

After the consecration service Cardinal Gibbons celebrated pontifical high mass.

DRAINAGE CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Framers Not Satisfied with Higbee's Decision and will Try Case in Madison

An appeal in the Trempealeau drainage case will be taken to the supreme court in Madison according to a definite announcement made this afternoon by Attorney Frank Winter, who will represent the owners of the land affected.

Judge Higbee recently ruled that the land should be condemned for drainage purposes against strong objections raised by the farmers and owners of the land in that vicinity.

The trend of the circuit judge's decision was that this territory, which furnishes excellent hunting, must give way to progress and that in his opinion hundreds of acres of now worthless land could be converted into good farming land.

"Our case in the supreme court," said Attorney Winter today, "will be based on whether or not the law allowing the drainage company to change the course of the Trempealeau river is constitutional. Our argument will be that it is against the law to change the course of a navigable stream and we contend this will be necessary if the drainage project goes through."

CATHOLIC PRELATES IN METROPOLIS TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Cardinal Vannutelli has arrived in New York. In addition to Cardinal Vannutelli, Cardinals Logue and Bons, Archbishops Ryan, Quigley, Farley and O'Connell, together with two score bishops and other prominent church dignitaries, will be present at the dedication of the new Catholic cathedral.

The mass at which Cardinal Vannutelli will celebrate will be held Thursday.

NEWS CAUSES BREAK

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The first news of the Portuguese uprising caused a break in consols early in the session of today's stock market but there were subsequent recoveries and later in the day consols were firm.

Portuguese bonds, however, have suffered an extreme decline of three points and Spanish bonds went off a point and a half.

THOMAS O'ROURKE DIES AT DUBUQUE

Word was received in this city today announcing the death at 2 o'clock this morning at his home in Dubuque, Iowa, of Thomas O'Rouke, brother of Capt. Peter O'Rourke of this city. Decedent was one of the old and well known captains on the upper Mississippi river and was the first captain of the steamer Bella Mac, which was owned by McDonald Bros., and was for many years one of the prominent raftboats, plying the upper river. Peter O'Rourke left today for Dubuque to attend the funeral.

36 KILLED IN TRACTION WRECK

Failure of Motorman to Obey Orders Cause of Disastrous Collision on Illinois Lne

GUILTY MOTORMAN HAS FLED

Interurbans Crash Head-on and State Commission Starts Investigation Today

STAUNTON, Ill., Oct. 5.—Motorman John Lierman, charged with causing the collision between two interurban trains on the Illinois Traction Company's line near here late yesterday was arrested today when he returned to his home here to be with his wife and their baby, born Monday night. Lierman jumped before the crash came, escaped injury and left the scene.

Gen. H. E. Chubbeck says Lierman has admitted that he alone is responsible for the collision. Twenty-eight of the dead are at Carlinville, seven at Granite City and two here.

STAUNTON, Ill., Oct. 5.—Thirty-six persons were killed and twensix others were injured late yesterday afternoon when two interurban cars on the Illinois (McKinley) traction traction system collided head on at Dickerson curve two miles north of here.

Both cars were going at a high rate of speed and as the curve where they met is at the bottom of a hill, both cars were plunging down hill. They met right on the curve and so sudden was the collision, the motormen barely escaped with their lives by jumping.

Both cars were demolished and the dead, dying and injured were piled in one bloody mass, while the screams of the maimed and bleeding added horror to the scene.

Crews Escape

The members of the crews of both cars escaped. They are John Lierman of Staunton, motorman, and M. A. Leonard, conductor of No. 14; W. V. Duncan, conductor, Springfield, and E. J. Young, motorman, Springfield, car No. 73.

Eight Unidentified

Of the 36 persons killed eight were still unidentified. Some of the injured are unconscious and the full extent of their wounds have not been determined. It was learned this morning that Motorman Lierman has fled from Staunton. His arrest has been ordered but no trace of the man has been found. The state commission on arriving here today stated that they were not satisfied with placing the responsibility entirely on one man and will make an exhaustive investigation.

Lierman and his conductor M. A. Leonard received instructions to remain at Staunton for two sections of the southbound train, which was loaded with passengers for St. Louis for the celebration there.

The train waited for the first section of the southbound train and then proceeded for Springfield. The two trains crashed head on into the second section.

Offi,cials Among Dead

Among the dead are five company employes. They are: John E. Barry, W. W. Street, assistant tranmister, A. A. Price, auditor of disbursement and Herman Bauer, of the bridges and buildings department.

Other dead are: Blotna John, Blend, Ill.; Blotna, Mrs. John, Blend Ill.; Henry, S. T., Princeville, Ill.; Hadbegger, J. R., Jamestown, Ill.; Intermill, Manual., Baden Baden, Ill.; Kuenza, A. I., Belleville, Ill.; Kane, Mrs. C. H., Granite City, Ill.; Rubert, . E., Belleville, Ill.; Schaefer, J. C., St. Louis; Swaneden, Miss Beatrice, Springfield, Ill.; Werner, C., Chapin, Ill.

Seven women and one man have not been yet identified and are in Carlin morgue.

Motorman Arrested

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Oct. 5.—John Lierman, motorman of the northbound train, missing since the Staunton wreck, appeared here this afternoon. He was arrested.

Lierman is held responsible for the wreck. He is said to have disregarded orders issued by the dispatchers. M. A. Leonard, conductor on Lierman's car, and E. J. Young, motorman on the southbound Springfield train, were also arrested. J. M. Duncan, conductor of the Springfield train, is in the hospital injured.

One additional body was identified here this afternoon as Mrs. F. W. Reed, Peoria, Ill. It was identified by jewelry found on the body.

OLD ATHLETIC BOARD IS GONE

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—President Van Hise today announced that in the membership of the new faculty of the board of control for athletics, only one of the old board remains, A. Glaird, and while the others are not sufficiently known at this time, it is believed the board now will be more tolerant of athletics at the Wisconsin university.

Senator Is Resting well Today, but Is Not Past the Danger Point

ROCHESTER, Minn., Oct. 5.—(Special)—The following bulletin regarding the condition of Senator La Follette was given out at St. Mary's hospital at 11:30 this morning:

"Senator La Follette passed a fair night, getting a good amount of sleep after midnight. Condition normal. Functions acting splendidly. Everything favorable.

(Signed) "PHILIP FOX,
"GEORGE KEENAN,
"C. H. MAYO,
"W. J. MAYO."

Professional opinion at the hospital is that the senator's chances are improving every hour, although he is not out of danger. Dr. Fox says that his condition is, "all and more than could have been expected."

Senator La Follette took his first nourishment this morning. It consisted of a glass of water and a cup of weak tea.

DYNAMITERS' TRAIL GETTING HOTTER

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 5. — With the finding near San Francisco of a launch believed to be the Peerless in which 500 pounds of dynamite purchased from the Giant Powder company of Oakland, on Sept. 24, was taken away, the local police believe they are in possession of strong evidence leading to the capture of the perpetrators of the Los Angeles dynamite outrage.

Chief Galloway declared today that his detectives in Los Angeles had got upon the trail of the dynamiters, but he declined to divulge anything further.

General Otis, owner of the Los Angeles Times, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of criminally libeling Andrew Gallagher, a labor leader, will be given a hearing this afternoon on a habeas corpus petition.

Organization Responsible.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 5.—That some organization is responsible for the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times plant and that a large number of men had a hand in the conspiracy, was the assertion today by Attorney Earl Rogers, of Los Angeles, who is here investigating clues.

Bryson and Morris are members of a certain order which is strong on the Pacific coast, and the detectives think their names were used by members of that order.

Bryson and Morris were the names given by the persons who purchased 500 pounds of dynamite from the Giant Powder plant in Oakland, but both assert that they never authorized anyone to buy dynamite.

TAKE NO CHANCES OF CHOLERA SPREAD

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—"We will fight the cholera epidemic at the points of departure in Europe, particularly along the Mediterranean and thus prevent the annoyance to commerce here," said Ted Waterman folowing a conference with Health Officer Doty here today.

"We have taken such precautions that there is no chance of the disease getting a foothold in America," said Waterman.

There are now 2,060 persons detained at the observation pavilions at Hoffmans Island. They are steerage passengers from the Sant Anna of the Fabre line, Moltke of the Hamburg-American line, and Virginia of the Italian line. The cabin passengers from these vessels have been released and landed, the doctors agreeing that there was no danger of infection among them.

GOVERNOR TO INTERFERE

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 5. — Col. Oliver G. Munson, private secretary to Governor Davidson, and Attorney General Frank L. Gilbert left at 1:35 this afternoon for Winter to investigate the conditions in the Dietz case with a view to possible executive action. This step is understood to be the result of the many telegrams and letters of indignant protest against the recent shooting of the Dietz children by Sheriff Madden's deputies.

WINTER, Wis., Oct. 5.—Firing was begun early today around the besieged Dietz cabin at Cameron Dam, according to reports brought in by frightened woodsmen, who arrived in town about noon. It is the general belief that today will see the end of the excitement.

The cordon of armed guards in command of Sheriff Michael Madden and Deputy Sheriff Thorbin, have gradually tightened the lines of advance and at the first signs of ife around the cabin early today the members of the posse advanced to the edge of the clearing and began firing.

Deputies Wounded.

Some of the early reports say that several shots were fired when members of the Dietz family were seen to cross the yard and that deputies were wounded by a return fire.

Winter is now practically without armed sentries. They have all gone to the woods to join the attacking party. No sooner was the news of the early shooting received than a half score of deputies left suddenly by the road leading to Cameron Dam.

In addition to the armed forces, the townspeople understand that a

Estimates that New Water System Can Be Installed at a Cost of but $105,000

BRADISH SUBMITS A REPORT

Advocates the Construction of Sedimentation Plant on the Site of the Levee Park

The regular meeting of the board of trade last evening in the small council chamber resolved itself into a general debate upon the water question and all phases of the proposition were given by the followers of the several plans proposed. City Engineer George Bradish read a lengthy report of the water proposition in which he gave a history of the proposition from the beginning. After reviewing all the work that has been done by experts and giving his views regarding the present conditions, he said that something must be done to improve the water system in La Crosse. He advocated the adoption of plan No. 2 as given in the report of Goodwin & Harper of Kansas City. No. 2 the experts employed by the city to make an investigation of the conditions in La Crosse. In this connection he said:

The System Favored

"The real proposition is to construct a new pumping station at Riverside park, install therein at once a 6,000,000 gallon high duty pump, also centrifugal pumps to force the water into the sedimentation or skimming basin, also build near the pumping plant. This sedimentation basin must not be confounded with a settling basin, nor with a filtration plant, it being a separate and distinctive system of treating water and has been in general use only since about 1903, practically the first system of this kind being installed in St. Louis about that time and they are now treating from 90,000,000 to 120,000,000 gallons daily. It has been so successful and given such general satisfaction that even Mr. Dickinson, in his recent report on the well systems recommends it for that city. Since that time there has probably been installed some 20 or 25 plants operated by this system.

"Coagulants have been termed 'bleaching powder, germicide, bugicide' and other names and as is too often said is placed in the water to kill the germs and bacteria and, therefore, they are injurious to the delicate linings and organs of the inner man. If it was the province of coagulants to kill and destroy, then there possibly might be a foundation for such rot. The definition of the word properly expresses the action: 'Coagulate—to change from a fluid into a more or less solid mass, to curdle, congeal or clot.' One office of coagulant is to remove colon often present in waters. In itself it is harmless but is absolutely necessary to the life and preparation of bacteria and without it the life of bacteria is short. After the coagulants have been added to the water thousands of small globules or particles like fine mustard seeds can be seen suspended and the water has a generally glutinous appearance. This is called flock. Into this flock and during the process of curdling has been gathered the impurities, germs, the finest of silt and microscopic atoms. In other words a chemical change has taken place. It is now the province of the sedimentation basin to settle this flock out of the water. At this point the lines of sedimentation and filtration separate as filtration strains it out in the passage of water through the sands and must not be settled out before the water enters the clear well."

The Well System

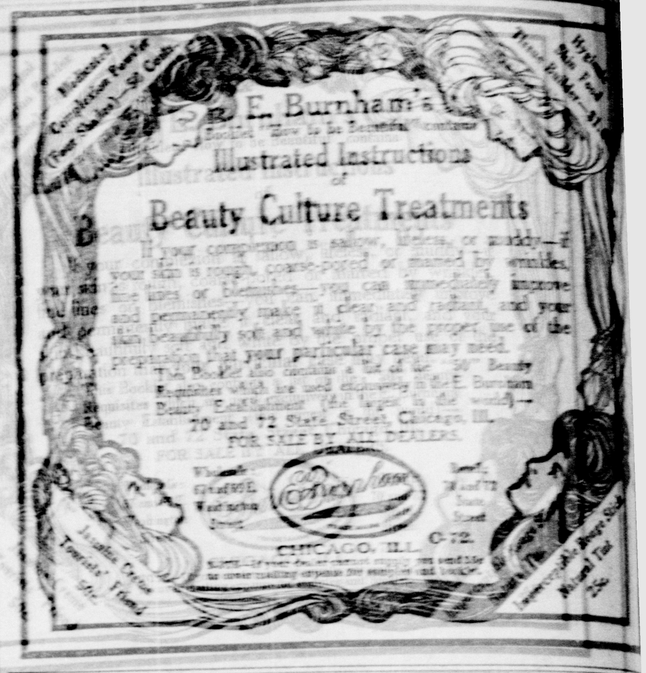

After concluding the reading of his report Barney Olson, who had been invited to the meeting, was called upon. Mr. Olson, who is an advocate of the well system, said that the gravel beds underlying La Crosse are the best of those of any city on the Mississippi river. He said when a well is sunk at any point in the city it is found that the water is always on a level with that in the river, thus showing that the well water is naturally filtered by the sand and gravel, and that both have the same source of supply. The city of Onalaska, he said, is using well water in boilers and has used it for the past 12 years and the boilers in that city are all in good condition. He advocated the erection of a reservoir, which could be pumped full of water in ten hours and which would furnish the city a supply of water for 24 hours.

Mr. Olson said he had made an estimate of the cost of a well system and figured that his plan could be carried out at a cost of $105,000, including a $15,000 pumping station and three miles of cast iron pipe.

Other Speakers

A number of others took part in the discussion, including C. W. Dickinson, who is an advocate of the well system and who reviewed the report made by him to the board of trade after visiting a number of cities in the United States. F. A. Copeland also spoke in favor of the well system.

James T. Day supported the administration plan and read reports from Winona and other cities which use wells and which, according to the reports, are dissatisfied with their source of supply. Alderman William Collins spoke in favor of his plan to take water from the lagoon in Pettibone park, while Paul W. Mahoney closed the discussion by calling attention to the fact that the council must decide this matter and that whatever the board of trade does has little weight upon the members of that body.

SINGER'S GOWN CLOTH OF GOLD

When Mme. Schumann-Heink appears upon the stage at the La Crosse Theater Friday evening, Oct. 7, she will be resplendent in a wonderful gown of cloth of gold and gold net heavily studded with gold sequins. On the skirt are motifs or medallions hand painted in the most delicate pastel shades. These motives represent music. Seed pearls outline the medallions and at intervals are roses made of the cloth of gold. This gown is empire and was made for the great reception given by the American Ambassador, Mr. Hill in Berlin, where royalty and every member of the diplomatic corps was present. Mme. Schumann-Heink at this reception was the center of attraction and her gown was admired by every one. It is one of the most handsome gowns ever worn here or abroad.

The jewels Mme. Schumann-Heink will wear with this gown are priceless. They are mothers-in-law money cannot purchase them. They were conferred upon them by the crowned heads of Europe as a royal favor. She has many of the given her by kings and queens. A jewel which she prizes most highly is a beautiful brooch presented to her by the late Queen Victoria. She does not care much for diamonds, yet she has a few choice and costly sparklers which she wears.

DEPARTMENTS CLASH ON SCHEFTELS CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A clash between the postoffice and department of justice is said to have been caused by the recent raid on B. H. Scheftels and Company.

Postmaster General Hitchcock is in New York investigating the raid and expects to report on it shortly to President Taft and secure from the chief executive a ruling as to the future relation between the two departments in such affairs.

It is understood that the postoffice department has been investigating the Scheftels firm for two years but sufficient evidence was not gathered to have the postmaster general issue a fraud order, or to go before a grand jury and ask indictments.

Hitchcock admitted today that agents of his department had presented the matter to the federal district attorney but that no warrants had been issued. While the postoffice department was thus engaged, a General Scarborough of the department of justice got busy with the result that a raid was made.

For the Woman who Has Beautiful Hair

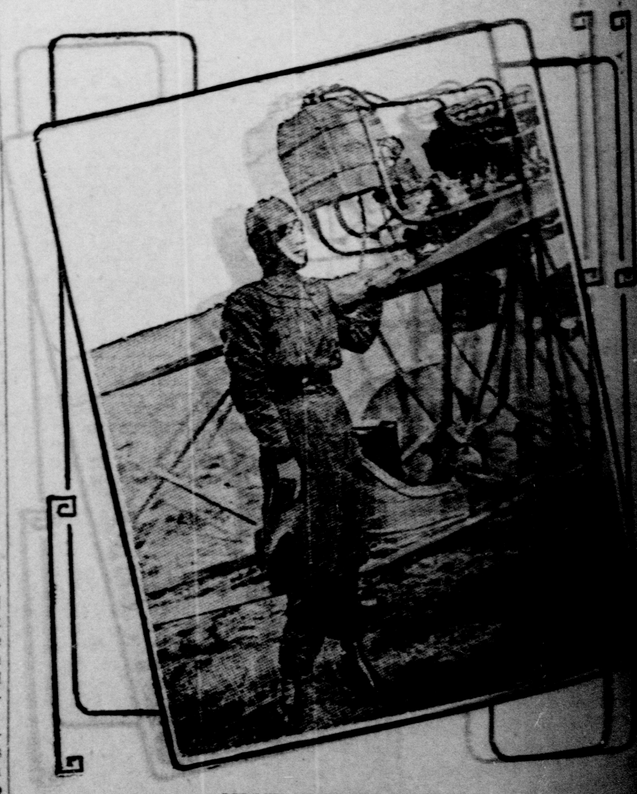

(New York Theatrical News.)

The beauties in the Anna Held chorus are famous for their pulchritude. Their coiffures add a great deal to their charms. How they can "manage" such abundance of beautiful tresses day in and day out, keeping always the same well groomed appearance, is beyond the ken of the average woman. But, listen while I whiser, these girls depend altogether upon dry shampooing to keep their hair fine and glossy.

They mix 4 ounces of powdered orris root with 4 ounces of therox, and they are prepared for a season's shampooing. Once or twice a week they sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture on the head and then brush the powder well through the hair. That is all there is to it, and they have escaped the bother and discomfort that accompany washing, rinsing and drying the hair together with the danger of catching cold.

The wonderful results they achieve with therox convinces me that it is the only thing that can grow hair, for their hair is long and abundant in addition to being fluffy and lustrous.

AS OTHERS SEE US

It is a story of brutality, stupidity and cowardice—that of the Dietz affair.

A citizen runs counter to the law and presents armed defiance to the authorities. He "gets away with it" for a number of years. Finally, following an alleged new infraction and further defiance of arrest, the sheriff's posse shot the outlaw's daughter and son in cold blood.

But where is Dietz? Why has not this brave sheriff shot him?

He is at large. He has terrorized this valiant sheriff and his courageous posse.

The shooting of Dietz's children is as much an evidence of cowardice as is the failure to capture Dietz.

The thing is revolting. Society is outraged. Wisconsin is laughed to scorn. An understanding of how the affair appears to non-residents may be had from the following editorial which appeared in the St. Paul Dispatch:

"There is something rotten in the administration of the law when the tide of sympathy turns entirely to the admitted law breaker. The Wisconsin melodrama has been converted suddenly into tragedy, with the first act complete and the performers huddling in abject fear of what may befall them in the second act. Nothing short of the cowardice which permitted the waylaying and shooting of the two children of Dietz could account for the terror which has seized the little settlement of Winter lest the outraged father should appear and wreak vengeance on the thirty or forty armed men who are held in a state of siege. The affair would seem ludicrous did it not involve disregard of law, defiance of law and what seems to have been wanton and craven shedding of blood.

"There is yet to appear the shadow of justification of the ambuscading and shooting of the Dietz children and the fact that one of the victims is a girl adds to the righteousness of the condemnation that will be showered upon the posse and the responsible authority. The sentiment that would have condemned Dietz in his resistance of law will be very lenient when it comes to the consideration of the outraged father thirsting for reprisals for his wounded daughter.

"The root of the trouble goes back for years. Public sympathy went out to Dietz in his struggle with a great corporation over the ownership of the dam rights, but, if the laws had been administered with a firm hand, they would have been vindicated and civilized Wisconsin would have been spared this sorry exhibition of frontier lawlessness. A courageous sheriff would have solved the difficulty in the beginning. Sheriff Madden has made it continually worse. It is not easy to see how the governor of Wisconsin is to escape his share of responsibility in permitting the affair to drag along through the inertness, fear or lack of knowledge and capacity on the part of the county officials. The law armed him with power to act and the Dietz difficulty should have been nipped in the bud. The disgrace to Wisconsin is shared by the officials which have made it possible."

And now a small army of men is surrounding Cameron Dam, bent on shooting Dietz to death on sight. Dietz is wrong. He may have shot his recent victim in self defense, but if he did, his defense should be made in court. His idea that a clear conscience justifies defiance of legal process is fundamentally wrong.

But, even if his act amounted to murder, the law would not take his life. Hanging is not permitted in Wisconsin. And here is an officer of the law armed with authority to kill, authority not enjoyed by courts and juries. This officer has shot two of the Dietz children. Imagine the frame of mind of the militant father! Of course he will defend himself. Yet he stands convicted of nothing, and he may be innocent of anything beyond defiance of arrest. And this state is watching a hounding mob bent upon killing him like a dog.

Respect of law is a prime essential of modern society, but in the administration of law officials must respect society's humane convictions. Admitting that Dietz is in the wrong, people are sympathizing with him. The pendulum of public sentiment has been swung back to his side by the cowardly assault upon his children. This state is shamed by the spectacle of incompetence and brutality that is disgracing Sawyer county and shocking the nation.

HOCH! DER KAISER

"Hoch! Der Kaiser" is a burlesque poem the reading of which by Capt. Joseph Bullock Coghlan, U. S. N., at a banquet tendered him and the officers of the Raleigh subsequent to Admiral Dewey's great naval victory, created something of an international incident. "Meinself—und Gott" is a phrase in the poem illustrative of its ironical reference to the self-importance which the author with brutal frankness attributes to the Kaiser. A recent parody describes the Kaiser as taking "Teddy" Roosevelt in to complete the trinity, and suggests that even "Gott" is crowded somewhat into the background by the new mutual admiration society. Following are six stanzas of the original, "Meinself—und Gott, paralleled with the parody, "Myself—und Tet:"

MEINSELF—UND GÖTT

Der Kaiser of dis Faterland
Und Gott on high all dings command,
Ve two—ach! don't you understand?
Meinself—und Gott.

Vile some men sing der power divine
Mein soldiers sing "Die Wacht am Rhein,"
Und drink der health in Rhenish wine,
Of Me—und Gott.

Dere's Grandma dinks she's nicht schmall beer,
Mit Boers und such she interfere,
She'll learn none owns dis hemisphere,
But Me—und Gott.

She dinks, good frau, some ships she's got,
Und soldiers mit der scarlet goat,
Ach! we could knock 'em—poof! like dot.
Meinself—und Gott.

In dimes of beace brepare for wars,
I bear der helm und shpear of Mars,
Und care not for den dousand Czars,
Meinself—und Gott.

In fact, I humor efery whim,
Mit aspect dark and visage grim
Gott pulls mit me, und I mit him,
Meinself—und Gott.

MYSELF—UND TET

Der Kaiser of dis Fatherland,
Und Roosevelt, all dings command—
Ve two und Gott, you understand—
Myself—and Tet.

It used to be yust Gott und me,
But Tet he come to make it dree,
Und Gott don't count much latterly—
Yust me—und Tet.

Yust me and Tet mit power divine
To keep de rest of dem in line—
In bease und var to give der sign—
Und sometimes—Gott.

Myself und Tet der same as peas—
Der same mit Gott, if you shall blease—
Der same in var, der same in bease—
Myself—mit Tet.

Der eastern hemisphere for me—
For Tet, der one across der sea—
For Gott der sky, ve vill agree—
Myself—und Tet.

A health to me—a health to Tet—
Und one for Gott alretty yet—
Vun Holy Trinity, you bet—
Ve two—und Gott.

SENSATIONAL

Something of a political sensation may be expected to be created by the following editorial utterance of the Evening Wisconsin:

"Francis E. McGovern, republican candidate for governor of Wisconsin, possesses a dynamic virility that commands the hearty admiration of many who are not in accord with all the planks of the remarkable platform upon which he is running for the office.

"His forty years of life have been years of struggle, during which, contending against adverse conditions, he has fought his way upward. There are men who flinch from strife. He accepts it as a natural concomitant of existence, and rarely appears at greater advantage than when in the thick of a conflict.

"He is a worker as well as a fighter, disciplined to manual as to intellectual toil. There is not a fiber of his lithe physique that is lazy. His energy usually compels success in what he undertakes. Mr. McGovern will make a spirited campaign and will be the next governor of Wisconsin."

We quite agree with the Evening Wisconsin. There is nothing sensational in the text of the article, but it may cause widespread comment that the paper in question has given expression to a political opinion.

Worse and Worse

Gov. Hughes, at a dinner in New York, was talking about an explanation that had been suggested for a crooked political deal.

"It was an explanation that made matters worse," he said. "It was like the remark of the Atlantic City landlady.

"A gentleman at an Atlantic City boarding house, sniffed at the fish set before him, and calling the landlady, he said:

"'Look here, this fish isn't as fresh as that I get in New York.'

"'Why, that's strange,' said the landlady. 'All our fish comes from New York.'"—Washington Star.

A lady doesn't care to vote so long as she can boss one who does.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Viewpoint

"We spend too much," the speaker cried,
"Check this extravagance;
We're spendthrifts—can it be denied
We're daft on elegance?"
"He's right," quoth Smith; "he told no lies;
Let's check this spending wave,
But let the rest economize—
There's nowhere I can save."

A woman read the ringing speech
Of that economist;
She said: "That speaker is a peach—
A prophet, I insist;
It's true," she murmured, "as he's told—
It's true, oh, yes, indeed;"
And then she spent much shining gold
For clothes she didn't need,

And so it went from man to man,
And then from dame to dame;
No sacrificing soul began
To start the saving game;
'Tis passing easy to denounce
An evil of the nation,
But not so easy to renounce
Our share in its creation.
—Denver Republican.

Why the Boy Gave Thanks

Alan had played the entire day with little brother without an impatient word. After saying his customary prayer that night, his mother suggested he add: "I thank God I was not impatient with little brother today." This he did with much fervency; after which he remarked that there were some other things he would like to thank God for, and forthwith he closed his eyes and said:

"I thank God I offered my candy to father before taking any myself.

"I thank God I offered my candy to mother before taking any myself.

"I thank God I offered my candy to little brother before taking any myself.

"And I thank God there was some left."—Lippincott's.

Where She Caught It

"What's the matter with you this morning, Della?" asked Mrs. Wise.

"Oh, ma'am!" replied the servant girl. "'Tis the terrible earache I have this mornin'."

"Ah! You should be careful. All the keyholes in the house are very draughty!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

High Cost of Living

"Gifford Pinchot," said a New York physician, "has America's forests almost on the brain. He couldn't love them more if they were his own private property.

"Talking to me about the millions lost annually in forest fires, Gifford Pinchot asked angrily why the people didn't appreciate the proved value of their forests as they appreciated the still unproved value of Metchnikoff's lactic acid microbes?

"He said that in a restaurant that morning a man complained to a waiter:

"'Waiter, this milk is sour.'

"'If you use it, then, sir,' the waiter answered quickly, 'we'll have to charge you extra. Sour milk's gone up tremendously sir, since they discovered that it cures old age.'"—New York Sun.

The Variations of Love

Into a telegraph office in an eastern town there recently came a much agitated young woman. She wrote upon one telegraph blank, tore it in halves, wrote a second, which she treated in the same manner, and at last a third. This she, handed to the operator, requesting, in a trembling voice, that he "hurry it up."

The operator obeyed instructions, and when the young woman had gone he read the two messages that she had town in halves.

The first was:

All is over. I never wish to see you again.

The second read:

Do not write or try to see me at present.

And the third ran:

Can you take the next train? Please answer.—Lippincott's.

The Carleton Case

By ELLERY H. CLARK

Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company.

And then ,even at the very instant when Henry Carleton had sorrowfully, but with philosophy, arrived at this inevitable conclusion, Vaughan, drawing a long breath, at last found his tongue. "Why," he said, speaking with a seeming boldness and hardihood, which in reality were but the result of the most extreme embarrassment, ' it's like this, Mr. Carleton; I want to marry Rose."

The proverbial bombshell, exploding at Henry Carleton's feet, could hardly have made the same havoc with his body that Vaughan's few words managed to create in his mind. And yet, to his credit be it said, his habitual self-control now stood him in such stead that after the one first uncontrollable glance of sheer surprise, he at once contrived to conceal not only his amazement, but as well any other feeling that might have been agitating his soul. And in another moment, indeed, he had even successfully achieved a very fair imitation of a jocular smile. "Rose," he echoed, my daughter Rose! Why, you're joking with me, my dear fellow She's not eighteen yet. She's a child."

Vaughan, now that the worst was over, did not seem to be properly disconcerted at the reply. "Oh, I know she's quite young," he answered readily enough, "but that doesn't seem to make any particular difference. We're both prepared for a long engagement. I'm not well off, in the least. It's bound to be some time before I could dream of providing for her in any proper way at all. But I love her, Mr. Carleton—as much, I think, as any man could—and she loves me, and we think, after all, that's the main thing. The other details we'll work out, somehow, I guess."

Henry Carleton had now perfectly regained his self-possession. He gazed at the young man with benevolence in his eye. "Yes, yes," he assented, a little dreamily, "love, of course; that's the great essential. With that I thoroughly agree. And yet, while with me Rose's wishes are the first consideration—no, rather I should say the only consideration—still, as I understand you to say yourself, it must equally be a point of proper pride with every man to know that he is earning an honest living, amply sufficient for all future needs. I take it that you would hardly quarrel with that, Mr. Vaughan?"

To Vaughan it appeared that he was progressing famously. "No, indeed," he cried readily enough, "I should say not. That's the first thing to consider, of course. But I think I'm going to be able to solve that difficulty in a short time now. I think I'm fairly on my way to a little luck at last. You know, of course, Mr. Carleton, in any of the arts it isn't exactly the same proposition for a man as if he'd chosen a business career. There, if he gets a start, and then sticks to his job, and shows any kind of ability at all, after a while he's almost certain to get somewhere or other. But with any of the arts—that's the chance a man takes when he turns his back on the solid, steady kind of things—you can work along for a devil of a while, putting in the very best that's in you, too, and yet you always stand a good chance of not arriving at all, or, if you do, perhaps not till two or three hundred years after you're dead. And of course, while even that, in a sense, is very gratifying, still it's hardly practical. Dining late, but in select company, in Landor's phrase, is all very well, if you can afford it, but the majority of us poor fellows have to dine in the middle of the day. The other thing's a luxury we can't afford."

Henry Carleton nodded. "Quite so, quite so," he said. "I know something of that myself. I thoroughly appreciate all the difficulties in the way of combining devotion to art with a large income. Its one of the least gratifying things about our life of the present day. And still, too, each year I believe the artist is coming more and more fully into his own. But you were going to say—about your immediate prospects—"

Vaughan flushed a little "I didn't mean to ramble on into so long a preface," he said, "I'm afraid it was nothing but a desire to excuse myself, anyway. However, here's where I think I really have a chance at last. I've written a book—a novel—and it's in the hands of Small and White now. Of course I needn't tell you what it would mean to have their imprint on a book—it would be half the battle to start with. And I've been able to get a little information in a roundabout way, so that I have some idea of what's happening. I know the book has got by the preliminary stages, anyway; I know that they're really considering it seriously, and that is something in its favor. But I'm hoping for more than that; I'm hoping that they will really accept it, and launch it in good style, and if they do, why—I know of course you'll think I'm conceited and overfond of myself to say such a thing—but, with all sincerity, Mr. Carleton, I think the book would be a sucess; I think it makes an approach to something like literary merit. Oh, if I could once get my start—get some pretext for thinking that I had a right to put more and more time into writing, and less and less into what is really only the merest hack work, that has to be done so hastily and superficially that in the end it would kill any man's style—then I'd work as nobody ever worked before—I'd kill myself to learn to write as I want to write—"

He broke off suddenly, his hands clenched, his face ablaze with the passion of the artist who craves to express in concrete form the dreams and visions that float athwart his brain. Henry Carleton sat regarding him narrowly, his face expressionless but when he spoke, his tone could hardly have been kinder or more sympathetic.

"Yes, yes, I understand your feeling exactly," he said, "and your ambition is a most worthy one. I'm delighted to hear about the book, and if you will allow me to do so, I should be very happy to try to help a little. There are one or two ways that occur to me offhand—understand me, of course—ways perfectly legitimate and businesslike in every particular, in which I think a word from me with Small and White might at least do no harm. Won't you try to get me a list of the men who do their reading for them? We'll leave no stone unturned that properly may be turned to give your effort a fair show. Rose's happiness is my happiness, and to see you in a position when you may rightfully pay your adresses to her—that I most earnestl desire. And in the meantime, you must come out to The Birches—let me see—come out tomorrow night, won't you, and dine with us? Jack's coming, and another man, I think. I shall be delighted to have you join us, and I think, after what you have told me, I may safely answer for Rose."

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF GIFT

Whereas upon the occasion of his seventieth birthday, Mr. A. Hirshheimer, President of the La Crosse Plow Company, of La Crosse, Wis., and the founder of the business in 1865, presented to each one of the empoyes of the company the sum of one dolar for each year of his continuos employment in the establishment,

Now therefore, be it resolved by the employes of the La Crosse Plow Company, that as a body they hereby heartily thank Mr. Hirshheimer for this kindly and unusual remembrance, partially for its intrinsic value but many times more for its expression of good will to and interest in those in his employ; seeing in it a manifestation of the friendly relation far deeper than that ordinarily existing between employer and employed, that has continually existed between him and his men.

Further, be it resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be suitably engrossed a ndpresented to Mr. Hirshheimer, and a copy be sent to the public press.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by G. T. Erhart.

COMPLETE NEWS OF THE NORTH SIDE

WILL NOT FINISH DOUBLE TRACKING

Stretch Between Wabasha and Winona will Have to Wait Until Next Spring

The statement was given out early in the spring that it was expected the double tracking between Winona and Wabasha on the Milwauke & St. Paul road would be completed this season, but it now appears this will be impossible, for notwithstanding the large amount of work which has been done there is still a great deal more necessary to put the line into shape for usage. At the Wabasha end the work is more nearly completed than it is on the Winona end of the stretch.

North of Winona there are a number of places where no grading has yet been done although this will be started as soon as possible. Persons who are familiar with railway work are of the opinion that very good progress has been made this season in the laying of the double track between Winona and Wabasha. If the laying of a second track parallel to the first was all that was being done this season it could doubtless have easily been completed by this time, but the entire roadbed is being improved, straight stretches of track being lengthened and short curves made into longer ones. In many places the old track will be eliminated, and its place taken by new double parallel tracks.

While most of the bridge work is now in there is still some fore to be placed. The bridges are either of reinforced concrete or steel, wooden bridge work being entirely cut out.

Work will continue this season as long as the weather will permit.

Cured Stomach Trouble

Mr. Jas. P. Stansel made sound and well after several years of suffering.

Read what Mr. Stansel says: "I had stomach trouble for several years and began using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. In a short time I was sound and well. I have recommended your medicine to others and know many have used it to great advantage."—Jas. P. Stansel, 105½ N. Market St., Columbus, Miss.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

when taken in medicinal doses, just before a meal, stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, causing a sufficient flow of the gastric juice to digest the food. If continued it will cure the disease or weakened function by its tonic and stimulating effect. It also excites the flow of saliva for the digestion of starchy food, preventing fermentation in the stomach and bowels.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free.

HAS RACCOON THAT WAS JEFFRIES' PET

Sam J. Curtiss, who Attended the Big Fight at Reno, Has Unique Animal Here

The raccoon that was the pet of the Jeffries training camp prior to the big championship battle at Reno on July 4 is in La Crosse and is now the property of Sam J. Curtiss, producer of the original school act which is this week's headliner at the Majestic.

Mr. Curtiss and William Faust, member of his company, both attended the big fight at Reno and their stories of the scenes in and around the mining town prior to and during the fights are most interesting. They were presented with the raccoon two days after Jeffries' defeat.

Mr. Curtiss spent several days visiting the camps of both Jeffries and Johnson near Reno and is well up on the "straight dope" in regard to the big fight fest.

"The moving pictures, which are to be shown at the Majestic Friday and Saturday night," said Mr. Curtiss, "are the ones that have been shown elsewhere in the country and are in reality as good as the fight itself.

"They show every movement of the contestants very clearly but I really think the most interesting of all is the views of the crowds just before the fight.

"The introduction of the celebrities at the fight is in itself a show. Sullivan, Sharkey, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Ketchel, Attel, Wolgast and practically all men of prize ring importance, both old and young, are shown.

"Billy Delaney is among the bunch as well as other celebrities."

Mr. Curtiss has several inside stories of the fight, many of which have not been printed and the connection Billy Delaney had with Johnson's winning of the championship is more than interesting.

"There is absolutely nothing about the fight pictures," continued Mr. Curtiss, "at which anyone could take offense. Women will enjoy it as much as anyone and it will in reality be a treat to them to witness real prize fighting."

PREFERS AGREEMENT WITH THE POWERS

Congressman James A. Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, is opposed to the plan to fortify the Panama canal.

The Minnesota congressman will go to Panama soon and will try and arrange his itinerary so he will be there simultaneously with the president, so that the representatives of the committee and the executive may confer relative to the plans to fortify the canal.

Congresman Tawney proposes instead of the administration plan to erect immense fortifications at either mouth of the canal, that an agreement be reached among the great maritime powers of the world which shall make the canal neutral, so far as its use by the warships of other nations is concerned, but which will give to the United States the exclusive right to use the waterway for the transportation of its own ships of war in time of conflict if necessary.

FAREWELL FOR REV. PANZLAU

Congregation, Pastors and Friends Join in Reception for the Pastor

Rev. J. L. Panzlau, retiring pastor of the First German M. E. church and his wife, were the guests of honor last evening at a farewell reception held at the church parlors, when members of the congregation, the pastors' union and friends generally bade farewell to the departing pastor and his wife.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Rev. Panzlau has been in La Crosse for six years and his work here has been especially effective. He has been a strong, fearless and liberal minister and has stood high in the councils of the Pastors' Union of the city and in church work generally. He leaves La Crosse to take the pastorate at Charles City, Iowa, considered the finest appointment within the gift of the bishop of this district. The big church college is located in that city and here are more than 250 young people who will be members of Rev. Panzlau's congregation.

At the reception last evening Rev. Henry Faville, pastor of the First Congregational church, spoke on behalf of the Pastors' Union, and Mr. Carl Schaefer on behalf of the congregation. Rev. Panzlau responded and expressed his regret at leaving so many friends in La Crosse, despite the fact his transfer is to be considered in the light of a very notable promotion. He expressed his appreciation for the aid of all those who have helped him in his work, and his appreciation of the kind treatment he has received from citizens while a resident of La Crosse.

The departing pastor and his wife were presented with a handsome buffet and a beautiful cut glass water set as a token of esteem from his parishers. Rev. and Mrs. Panzlau leave tomorrow for Charles City, Iowa.

BEETHOVEN RECITAL

Mr. Herbert Loveday, the new organist of Christ church and piano teacher at the La Crosse School of Music, made his first appearance as a pianist at Masonic Temple last evening. It was a recital of Beethoven sonatas. Mr. Loveday at the beginning gave a short and well conceived review of Beethoven's life and his musical creations. The gentleman is quite a pleasing speaker and his efforts in this line were praise worthy. Mr. Loveday, as a pianist, has a very reliable technique and much musical intelligence at his command. His manner at the instrument is charming and free from all mannerism and the impression made by all of his offerings was decidedly favorable.

Mr. Ross ably assisted Mr. Loveday in the rendering of the ninth sonata for violin and piano and in the adagio from the third sonata. Both numbers were played by the two performers with technical accuracy and musical intelligence. The audience showed its appreciation of the musical treat by hearty applause. ISADOR TIPPMAN.

FAREWELL SURPRISE

Mrs. Gertrude Nichols was pleasantly surprised at her parents' home 1010 La Crosse street, Friday evening. Progressive cinch was played, the prizes being taken by Mrs. Viner and Mr. T. MARRIAGE OF MISS FAY AND W. J. FRISSELL

Miss Elizabeth Minnie Fay of this city and Warren Joseph Frissell of Savanna, Ill., were married yesterday at St. Joseph's Cathedral by Rev. Franke. Miss Minnie Lutz and Joseph Lutz of St. Paul, cousins of the bride, were the attendants. The bride wore a handsome gown of tussa royal hand embroidered and trimmed with point lace. The bridesmaid's gown was white batiste with trimmings of point lace. Mr. and Mrs. Frissell left for a trip south. Upon their return they will reside at Savanna, Ill.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

Norman Mac Donald of Winnipeg, spent a day in the city the guest of his sister, Miss Nellie MacDonald, and brother, Robert MacDonald. Mr. MacDonald is on his way to Chicago, where he will be married Monday, Oct. 10 to Miss Virginia Gregg, daughter of Joseph Gregg, both, formerly of this city. It will be a church wedding. Miss Martha Gregg, sister of the bride, will be bridesmaid and Robert MacDonald of this city, brother of the groom, will be best man. Miss Agnes Vincent will be maid of honor. Miss Gregg is La Crosse born and until a few years ago was a resident of this city, where she has many warm friends.

BANISHED
Coffee Finally Had to Go.

The way some persons cling to coffee even after they know it is doing them harm is a puzzler. But it is an easy matter to give it up for good when Postum—properly made—is used instead.

A irl writes: "Mother had been suffering with nervous headaches for seven weary years, but kept drinking coffee.

"One day I asked why she did not give up coffee as a cousin of mine had done who had taken to Postum. But mother was such a slave to coffee she thought it would be terrible to give it up.

"Finally, one day, she made the change to Postum, and soon her headaches disappeared. One morning while she was drinking Postum so freely and with such relish I asked for a taste.

"That started me on Postum and I now drink it more freely than I did coffee, which never comes into our house now.

"A girl friend of mine, one day, saw me drinking Postum and asked if it was coffee. I told her it was Postum and gave her some to take home, but forgot to tell her how to make it.

"The next day she said she did not see how I could drink Postum. I found she had made it like ordinary coffee. So I told her how to make it right, and gave her a cupful I made, boiling it fifteen minutes. She said she never drank any coffee that tastesd as good, and now coffee is banished from both our homes."

NEW MINISTER HAS BEEN HERE BEFORE

Rev. J. H. Klaus, who comes from Charles City, Iowa, to accept the pastorate at the German Methodist church here, has had a long and successful ministry at Charles City.

Rev. Klaus has long been in the ministry, having been admitted to the conference in Charles City in October, 1884.

He was born at Colesburg, Iowa, Delaware county, November 23, 1858. He was reared on a farm and following a public school attendance attended the college at Galena, Ill., and graduated there in 1882. After that he taught school two years before entering the ministry. He was first appointed as pastor at Stitzen, Wis., from where he went to the First church at La Crosse, Wis., for a period of five years, then to Freeport, Ill., from 1891 to 1896. Rev. Klaus then went to Dubuque for three years from 1896 to 1899, then left the active work in the ministry in 1899 for two years and lived at Earlville until 1901, at which time the work at Charles City was taken up.

Rev. J. L. Panzlau, who leaves La Crosse, accepts the pulpit made vacant by the leaving of the Rev. Klaus at Charles City.

SAYS HE'S VICTIM OF BLACKMAIL

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5. — Decaring that he is the victim of a blackmailing scheme, Dandrige H. Bibb, a prominent lumberman and builder of San Francisco, is in jail here awaiting release on habeas corpus proceedings. Bibb was arrested on a dispatch from the acting chief of police at San Francisco, stating that Bibb had been indicted by the grand jury on a charge made by an associate and as a fugitive from justice.

Bibb says the author of the charges against him is Christopher A. Buckley, who, he says, has been trying to force his associate patentees to share the proceeds of their patent with him. He came here a week ago with Prof. John D. Montgomery of Santa Clara college, the inventor of the patent, to look after their patent rights.

DESCRIBES VISIT TO HIS OLD HOME

Tells of Dramatic Meeting with His Old Mother and Father After Long Absence

Marcus Hanson, a postman in the city of Marshfield, Wis., in a letter to the Marshfield News thus describes his arrival at his boyhood home in Copenhagen, Denmark:

"On the morning of the 19th we sighted land, Denmark, my own country. The weather was perfect and the trip down the Oresound, so often described in song and story, was grand. One may be used to great sights, grand scenery and all that, but when one sees the beautiful shores of 'Seoland' and realizes that it is the fatherland which lies before his eyes, after an absence of 17 years, is it any wonder that he feels something stirring in the heart? But great as it was it was nothing compared to the emotion when my own beautiful home city, Copenhagen, rose before my eyes. To the right and to the left the old landmarks lay in the midsummer sunshine.

"The mighty spires and steeples, stretching toward the sky like giant fingers, tell the story of an artloving people; a nation which has fostered men like Thowaldsen, Kroyer, Bache, and others, in the world of art; a nation small in numbers, but great in achievements. One feels glad, not proud, to belong to this people.

"But there were disappointments also. Many of the old haunts, so well known to the boy who left seventeen years before, were not there to greet the man who returned. However, in their places rose stately structures or gloomy factories or beautiful parks lay invitingly before the eye. But the eye refused to see clearly; a misty something insisted on obscuring the view. I said to a friend, who stood near me, as I wiped and wiped my eyes, that something got into them and something did. Long did I gaze at the old town, the metropolis of Scandinavia, and many were the thoughts which passed through my brain. Memories of childhood and youth, gay and sad, mingled with thoughts of later years, all to end in one, almost chronic thought, one word—mother.

"Soon the steamer lay to at the quay. Thousands of people greeted the home comers with flags and handkerchiefs. It is always an event in Copenhagen, as elsewhere, when the 'Americaboat' comes in. Friends and relatives of expected visitors gather to meet and greet the 'Americans.' Many a heart beats quickly, while the eye strains itself to catch sight of some expected one some one who left home years ago, perhaps given up as dead, until some day a letter comes saying, I am coming home. Who can picture the excitement in the little home. The mother weeps, then laughs, then talks about it, while father hurries to tell the neighbors, and brother and sister wonder how big the long absent one will seem in their eyes.

"I stood on the upper deck, looking longingly towards the steeple of "Our Savior's church," where lies my home close by. I glanced at the crowds on shore, not to find any familiar face, for I had not told my dear ones that I would be there so soon. I wanted to surprise them a little, so they did not expect me for another two weeks, yet I could not be sure that no one was there, as they might suspect me of trickery. But I saw no one whom I knew, so hurried ashore. I felt the dear old ground under my feet and for a moment felt like running a race with some of the boys standing around, as I used to of yore, but I soon busied myself about getting my trunks in charge of a "Carrier" and refusing to ride with other friends from the steamer, I set out to walk the old streets towards home.

"How queer it seemed. So many changes, yet so many familiar sights. I walked rapidly until I came close to the old home, then I slackened my pace. Over the same old bridge, spanning the canal where I used to go to and from work years ago, I bent my steps, and, would you believe it, I nearly stumbled over what I verily believe to be the same old cobblestone against which I used to stub my wooden shoes as a school boy. Least ways I thought so at the time and, foolish boy, took a step backward to repeat the experience.

"Now another half block, then around the corner, and I was—home. Long did I walk forward and back, looking up the wall of the old four story house and casting eager glances down through the storewindow in the basement where the old folks keep their little grocery store, but no one came into sight. Then I gathered myself together, stepped into the neighbor's house, a stranger now, and asked the lady to call my mother in. I told her who I was and asked her to let me meet mother in her room, as I wanted to see her first of all. I waited a few minutes, yet a long time it seemed, then she came, the one for whom I had made the whole trip. She came from the washtub as of yore, and—but what's the use. My pen fails me now and besides—there are moments in a person's life, the memories of which are too sacred to be shared with others.

"After meeting mother I went out into the stret again and, warning her not to tell father that I was home, went into the store. Pulling my hat well down over my eyes, I asked for a bottle of ale, which, by the way, may be bought but not drank in the store. Father got the bottle but when I made a motion to open and drink it on the spot, he at once got excited. I remonstrated with him, pleading great thirst, but to no avail. Then I made a move towards the door leading into the sitting room, bottle in hand, but now father's old time temper arose and he proceeded to show me the door. "Out from here, this no saloon," he cried. When I took him by the hand, and asked him if he did not know his own boy, there were more tears."

HATCHET BURIED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—That the republican factions in this state have indeed buried the 'hatchet," was made plain at the meeting of the state committee, when Ezra Prentice, who gave way as a member of the committee, to permit Lloyd Griscom to be elected thereto, was unanimously chosen chairman succeeding Timothy L. Woodruff. Prentice was the selection of Griscom, who thereby paid a political debt and he succeeded in winning Col. Roosevelt over to his support after the colonel had fully made up his mind to name Charles S. Francis for the position. The Troy editor, however, did not want the job and was very willing to permit Prentice to do the work and get the glory, if any is to be had.

Wm. Barnes, Jr., avowed enemy of Roosevet, seconded the nomination on behalf of the "old guard" and aroused a laugh by saying:

"I second the nomination because of Mrs. Prentice's well known opposition to direct primaries."

ARMORY PROJECT IS RECOMMENDED

Favorable Report will Be Submitted to Council Regarding Sale of School House

The committees on finance and grounds and buildings of the council decided last evening to recommend to the common council at its next meeting that the offer made by the Governor's Guard association of $7,000 for the old Second District school property, corner of Fourth and King streets, be accepted on condition that the association erect an auditorium to cost at least $35,000 and that the structure be completed within three years.

The council committees held a conference last evening with a special committee of the Governor's Guard association and the matter was discussed at length.

With reference to the offer made by the La Crosse Telephone company to purchase the central fire station for $11,000, the committees decided to advertise for bids, this being the only way in which city property can be disposed of.

a British battleship from the Sao Paulo and is enroute to England. The queen mother is not with the boy king, but is staying at a secluded spot near Lisbon.

Harbor is Closed

A Central News dispatch says that the Portuguese warships have closed the harbor, preventing both the exit and entrance of foreign vessels.

The Portuguese mail train arrived at Madrid as usual today but it was made up of cars from Oporto alone.

Casualties Enormous

A late dispatch says that the palace force was also strengthened by one regiment of artillery that hastened to the palace at the first sign of the trouble. Against this force were three regiments of soldiers, who joined the revolution, and 8,000 armed peasants. Although poorly drilled, the superior number of the revolutionists, enabled them to win steadily.

From the number of people engaged it is certain that the casualties must have been enormous.

BADAJOSE, Spain, Oct. 5.—King Manuel owes his reported escape to the Brazilian warship Sao Paulo to the valiant service of his body guard according to reports received here. The refugees here declare that Manuel's body guard remained steadfast and barricaded themselves in the place and prevented its peaceful capture. While Manuel was hidden in an inside chamber the body guard fought off a vastly superior nuffber of revolutionists. As a last resort the revolutionists appealed to the navy, which followed the lead of the army in mutiny and warships in the harbor began a bombardment of the palace.

Seeing the capture of the palace inevitable a part of the royal guard surrounded the king and while the others kept up the fight at the front the escape of Manuel by a secret exit in the rear was affected. How the flight to the Brazilian warship was made without detection was unexplained by the refugees who have arrived here. The actual capture of the palace had not been affected at the time the refugees left though there was no doubt that it could hold out but a short time.

Adjournment Precipitated It

The revolution was undoubtedly hastened by the recent action of the government in adjourning parliament ostensibly for the purpose of investigating election frauds. It was feared the fruits of their long campaign were to be taken from them and from the moment of parliament's adjournment the revolutionists redoubled their activities.

The climax was reached in the assassination of Dr. Bombardu.

King Manuel himself is largely responsible for the crisis. He has lost much of his popularity of late due to the reports recently of excesses in private life. The recent crowning step of the government was its anti-clerical activity, in which it hoped to pacify the factions but which not only failed to win over the republicans, but alienated the mass of the populace and caused disfavor among the anti-clericals.

Plotted Against King

Portuguese revolutionists who had been compelled to take refuge in Paris declare the outbreak was forecasted long ago.

The republicans and the clericals have plotted against King Manuel because of his opposition to their organizations. His life has always been menaced. When he rode in King Edward's funeral procession in London it was remarked that a look of terror that had been on his face since the tragedy, had never disappeared. Almost nightly armed men have been arrested in the shadow in the vicinity of the palace.

Even the vatican had been able to warn Manuel that he was in danger in May, in giving information that the bomb which killed Jascolid in Madrid was really meant for the Portuguese king. Side by side with the anarchists, the revolutionary societies which plotted not only against the king, but the state have grown in strength, most of them armed. Men of high repute and business standing have joined these societies with no thought of association.

His Career Peaceless

Manuel had been king for two years and seven months but it is doubtful if he has had a peaceful movement during that time.

In England the look of terror never left his face. While there it was known he was in deadly danger for the headquarters of the anarchists, his bitterest enemies, are located in Paris.

Manuel became king on the assassination of his father and brother about two years ago. The royal family had just entered the carriage in Lisbon when a group of men entered. They shot down the king and crown prince and were all arrested.

For months the queen, mother Amelia and Queen Marishia kept the boy a prisoner in his castle for fear he would be assassinated, filling his heart with dread. He was small and bookworm, while his father was a giant and bolsterous.

Lost His Nerve

The boy king soon lost his nerve. He was even afraid to ask a princess to share his tottering throne though a wife was necessary to insure the throne to him.

Aristocrats Abused People

The Portuguese population consists of 300 aristocrats and about 5,000,000 common people. The aristocracy abused the common people for hundreds of years, squeezing out practically every cent the people had. It is this which caused the growing feeling of discontent. In spite of his starving subjects, Manuel maintained seven royal palaces in extravagant style. Only last June Manual intimated his desire to abdicate in favor of his uncle but it was pointed out to him that such action would surely be followed by a revolution which would make Portugal a republic.

Immediately before Manuel became king, Senor Francos, his father's premier, revocated his dictatorial power. This gave the king a measure of republican support but made him hated by the clericals who opposed any concessions that tended toward republicanism.

Between Two Fires

The ministry which succeeded carried out the constitution but the unrest continued. Last August Lisbon papers pointed out a clerical plot to depose Manuel because of his liberal policies toward the enemies of the church. Portugal is a Catholic country, but opposed to the clericals who have grown rich from the government's bounty, while the people started. Meanwhile the republicans were not content with Manuel's policy and the boy ruler was caught between two fires, each party planned to wipe out the royal family, the clericals expecting to place another on the ehrone, while the republicans expected to start a republic.

Manuel's personal extravagance contributed to the wrath that led up to the revolt.

Pope is Alarmed

LONDON, Oct. 5.—That the vatican is gravely alarmed over the situation is declared today in dispatches to Reuter today.

The members of the pope's office are greatly worried over the outbreak, fearing that it will have a deterrent effect upon Spain settling the anti-clerical controversy.

Spanish Army Ready

BARCELONA, Spain, via Cerbera, France, Oct. 5.—In anticipation that the Portuguese revolution will cause a similar outbreak in Spain the government is today mobilizing its forces throughout Spain. All news is being strictly censored. The republican leaders are under the closest espionage today. Reports from republican centers in Spain indicate the greatest activity and alarm is felt that an outbreak will be commenced at any time.

Republicans in Possession

LISBON, Oct. 5.—The republicans who yesterday overthrew the government are today in complete possession of the capital.

King Manuel II is reported to have taken refuge on a Brazilian warship.

Efforts are being made to extend the revolution to Spain. The revolt is the direct outcome of the clash of the clericals and anti-clericals.

British warships are enroute to Lisbon. Practically all telegraph wires from Lisbon to the outside world have been cut.

Rumors of probable intervention by England are current.

Royalists Flee

Mobs of revolutionists have attacked the homes of the government leaders and well known royalists, many of whom are reported slain.

In the royalist quarters of the city barricades were hastily erected and an attempt made to stand off the revolutionists. All through the night there was a succession of attacks on these barricades, most of which were eventually swept away.

When the full frenzy of the mobs was seen the royalists and clericals against whom the wrath of the revolutionaries was particularly keen, left the city, leaving their houses to fall before incendiary looters.

The fighting was unusually severe around the government buildings which, owing to their better construction, aford a safe refuge. Hundreds of shots were fired. A large part of the revolutionists were armed with rifles which clearly showed that the outbreak had been long anticipated.

Climax of Bloody Scene

One of the government military stores was raided and arms and ammunition seized. The climax to the bloody spectacle came when the warships began firing on the palace. These shots were greeted with frenzied shots of the mob and cries of "Down with the king," rent the air.

Attempts to secure possession of the king was made by the mob, who divining he would seek refuge on one of the warships at the harbor, gathered at the water front.

There has been considerable fighting in Lisbon and many conflicts are now raging throughout the capital.

Hundreds have fallen in the struggle for liberty. Although the latest dispatches from the clearance points from the fragmentary news that filters from the capital say that the revolutionists are in control, the fact that fighting indicates that a large part of the population and possible the soldiery has remained loyal to the government.

Bloody Fighting On

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Oct. 5.—Bloody fighting is in progress all over Portugal. The fights are occurring between revolutionists, who are following the example set by their confreres in Lisbon and the loyalists who are determined to hold out for King Manuel to the end.

Great activity has been noted in Spanish army circles since yesterday afternoon in connection with the Portuguese revolutions.

The Spanish royalists are afraid that the Portuguest revolutionists will provoke an attack of the Spanish radicals on the government as the two countries are so closely affiliated. Revolutionary leaders here declare that the movement here had met with more success than anticipated.

England Rushes Ships

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Three British warships are now enroute to Lisbon to protect English interests in Portugal. Whether the ships are under orders to protect King Manuel is unknown.

The foreign office is still without official notice but a long wireless has been received which it is now deciphering.

It is stated that a civil war has been instituted in Portugal and that King Manuel has been dethroned and captured or has secreted himself in some secluded place.

Two from Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 5.—The British cruiser New Castle left for Lisbon last night under rush orders and the cruiser Minerva left today. The New Castle was already under steam preparatory to sail for China when the order to proceed was received.

Fighting in Capital

England May Intervene

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Intervention on the part of England to save the throne of King Manuel of Portugal, is believed today to be one of the startling possibilities of the Portuguese revolution. It is reported that Marquis de Soveral, Portuguese minister to England, appealed today to the foreign office for intervention. Naturally no official confirmation of this is obtainable. De Soveral has been in almost constant communication with the foreign office since the first news of the uprising was received.

A Secret Agreement

Intervention by England would be warranted by reason of a secret compact that it is said exists between England and Portugal whereby England is given a free hand in Portugal's government affairs in return for just such a crisis as this revolution.

Since the death of King Edward, there prevails throughout the government circles a significant attitude toward the English.

Royalty Stands Together

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—It is considered probable in diplomatic circles here today that England will intervene in the Portuguese revolution in behalf of King Manuel. Such action is looked upon as a logical development.

FIRING IS BEGUN AT CABIN TODAY

number of men bearing rifles have arrived at the camp from Phillips, fully twenty miles southeast of the besieged home.

There are persistent rumors that another squad of armed men are on the way to assist Dietz and his family, but none of these reports are given any considerabe credence.

Dietz' Enemy a Deputy.

Under cover of darkness a party of special deputies cautiously invaded the dense forest which intervenes two miles between the Thornapple and the turnpike and took positions in the fringe of woods, 200 yards to the west of the cabin.

One of the leaders of the chosen squad who is a sworn personal enemy of the defender of Cameron Dam and armed with a .30 repeating rifle, and with a killing efficiency at 800 yards, is credited with being a better marksman than Dietz.

The cordon pressed in closer late yesterday, but could not find an opportunity to capture the author of the primary shooting.

St. Paul Men Join Siege.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 5.—Thirty-five St. Paul citizens have already signed a paper signifying their intention of going to Cameron Dam with arms and ammunition to procure the capture of John Dietz.

The leader of the movement says that before this evening he will have sixty signatures. The plan of campaign will be decided upon after the list is completed. Many are Spanish war veterans and members of the Minnesota National guard.

Girl Shooting Outrage

RICE LAKE, Wis., Oct. 5.—W. W. Dietz, brother of John Dietz, the defender of Cameron Dam, in an interview with a United Press correspondent said today:

"The public by this time knows of the outrageous shooting of my brother's children. They were shot along a public highway by the sheriff and his posse. After Myra was shot and lay bleeding by the roadside, they stepped up and put handcuffs on her. She asked for a drink of water, but they ignored her request. They then took the wounded girl to Winter and Dr. Burns dressed her wounds. An armed guard of five men was placed over her and the deputy sheriff in charge told me on Monday when they were taking her to a hospital at Ashland that her wound had not been dressed since the first dressing. All the way to the hospital the same five men stood over her prostrate form with Winchester rifles. I boarded the train at Birchwood, the day they were taking Myra to the hospital. The deputies locked the baggage car door and were not going to let me see my niece, but the conductor went around to the other end of the car and unlocked the door and let me in and I asked the deputy in charge if she was under arrest and he said 'no.'

"I said, 'why then is she guarded in this manner.'

"His answer was that they were taking her safely to a hospital.

"At the time of making the arrest of the children they took the team which belongs to my brother's wife, to Winter, and fed them in a hotel barn and then hired a man to drive them to Hayward, 45 miles away, where they are at the present time."

LOST LOVE CAUSE OF APPENDICITIS

So Says Mary Pfaff on Witness Stand in Suit Brought Against Former Lover

That love is mighty has been conceded from time immemorial, but that it causes appendicitis is a piece of information that will stir the medical world as well as the world of science generally.

Miss Mary Pfaff, who lives near Mindoro, Wis., is suing George Pfaff for breach of promise and made the startling declaration, during an adverse examination before Judge Brindley this morning, that the failure of her sweetheart to live up to his promises of marriage had not only affected her heart, but also her appendix.

The discovery of a new cause for the Twentieth Century ailment is credited to Attorney George M. Jerry, Black River Falls, Wis., the attorney for the defendant.

Miss Pfaff is suing for $5,000, charging that George Pfaff married another while still under promise to become her husband. Great mental anguish, physical pain and injury to her social standing in the community are the grounds upon which she bases her claim for damages.

"Well, how much of this sum do you think would be sufficient pay for the injury to your social standing?" queried the Black River Falls attorney.

"About $500," answered Miss Pfaff.

"Well, how much do you think you should have for the mental anguish you have suffered and for the physical pain?" questioned Perry.

The witness hesitated and finally admitted that she meant the $500 would cover the whole case.

Questioning as to just how her physical condition was affected by the loss of her sweetheart's love brought forth the statement that her heart hurt and that soon after the marriage of her sweetheart a bad case of appendicitis developed.

"Do you think the loss of his love for you had anything to do with bringing on the appendicitis?" asked Perry.

"I do," was the answer.

LOVE AFFAIR IS CAUSE OF SUICIDE

Mary Clark Is Said to Have Had a Quarrel with Young Man at St Paul

That Mary Clark committed suicide by walking into the Mississippi river as a result of an unhappy love affair, is now the opinion of her relatives. It has been learned that she had been working at the Elite laundry in St. Paul for several years. She roomed with Mrs. Fitzgerald at 441 Rice street in that city. Mrs. Fitzgerald had no intimation of the fact that she intended to kill herself. She acted strangely, however, and for several days before leaving St. Paul, but she always seemed happy. Friends at the laundry said that the girl had a quarrel with a young man with whom she had been "keeping company," and that this was probably responsible for her leaving St. Paul and drowning herself. It is now thought that her frequent visits to the depot were for the purpose of meeting someone from St. Paul. Being disappointed in not meeting the parties for whom she was watching, it is believed that she decided to go to the river and end her life.

While at the Interstate fair last Tuesday afternoon Miss Clark lost her watch. She advertised for the watch, offering to pay a reward, but Saturday morning she appeared at the newspaper office and paid the bill saying that she would rather pay it than to have it sent to her home, because she expected to leave the city. The watch has not been recovered. Saturday evening she returned to her home, saying that she did not feel well. She ate no supper and left the house, this being the last her parents have seen of her.

Friends Help Dragging

The search for the body of Mary Clark, who is supposed to have suicided in the Mississippi river Saturday night is being headed by the father and brother of the girl.

They spent all yesterday afternoon dragging the river near the spot where she was supposed to have drowned but without result and have offered a reward of twenty-five dollars for the recovery of the body.

Joseph Spears, owner of the skiff livery near the wagon bridge has done much towards recovering the body, having furnished all the skiffs drag hooks and other paraphernalia used in the search.

A number of private citizens are aiding in the search.

MRS. MEININGER DIES THIS MORNING

Mrs. Sebastian Meininger, one of the pioneer residents of this city, died this morning at her home, 816 South Fourth street, after a lingering illness. Decedent was born in Germany and was 82 years of age. Surviving are her husband and five children, Mrs. J. B. Hettinger, Mrs. N. Kaiser, Charles and Ida Meininger of this city, and Anna of Milwaukee. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Elenora Sauer.

Elenora, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sauer, 1018 Jackson street, died this morning. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the house and interment will be made in the Catholic cemetery.

RHEUMATISM

PURIFYING THE BLOOD THE ONLY PERMANENT CURE

No case of Rheumatism was ever cured except by a thorough purification of the blood; just as long as the blood remains charged with fermenting uric acid poison, the painful disease will continue. The pains and aches of Rheumatism are simply superficial effects of the impurities in the circulation, and sometimes may be temporarily relieved by the application of plasters, liniments, hot cloths, etc. But the person who trifles with this dangerous disease by depending on local treatment alone, is certain to pay for the mistake with constant suffering later on. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism in the only way it is possible to cure the disease. It goes down into the blood, and removes the uric acid from the circulation, so that the nerves, bones, muscles and joints are lubricated and fed with nourishing elements instead of being continually irritated and inflamed with the sharp, uratic impurity. When S. S. S. has cleansed and purified the blood, the pains and aches cease, all inflammation disappears, stiffened muscles are made pliant, and every troublesome symptom of Rheumatism is permanently corrected. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

HOW SAM RASK BEGAN IN LA CROSSE THE CAREER MADE GOOD IN MINNESOTA

NOW CANDIDATE FOR THE SENATE

Blooming Prairie Banker Walked Into La Crosse In Search of an Education.

GRIT MADE HIM A WINNER

Good Citizen, Good Banker, Good Soldier — He'll Be a Good Senator.

On a certain day in February, 1886, two boys, each leading a cow, might have been seen laboriously crossing the Mississippi river on the ice road leading into this city. The elder was fourteen, the younger twelve. The day was a bitter one and these boys were on the last leg of a journey fraught with hard work and discomfort.

The boys were Olaf Rask and Sam A. Rask, the latter now a banker of Blooming Prairie, Minn. and a candidate for state senator from his district. Their father had given up the pursuit of farming in Houston county to bring them to La Crosse that they might have the advantage of a liberal education.

Brother Died in War.

In passing it may be noted that Olaf Rask, the elder brother, died in the Philippine islands where he went in the service of his country as first lieutenant in the Fifteenth Minnesota Volunteers in the Spanish American war, having later been commissioned a first lieutenant of marines. Olaf Rask's death ended a career that had begun with a promise of great things.

But it is with Sam A. Rask that this story has to deal, and doubtless a recapitulation of the career of one well known and highly esteemed in this community will be of interest at a time when his fellow citizens of Minnesota contemplate honoring him with an office of honor and trust.

Led Cow to City.

That journey from Houston county which Sam Rask made bringing his cow with him, was the beginning of a career which justifies the faith being placed in Mr. Rask by his republican associates. Sam was a good and industrious boy on the old farm in Wilmington township where his father, Peter O. Rask, took up his residence upon coming to this country in the early 50's. Sam went through the graded schools and the La Crosse high school, thereafter preparing himself for a commercial career by a course in the Wisconsin Business University. The finishing touches of his education were provided by a course in English literature in the University of Chicago and a course in economics and political science in the University of Minesota.

Began at the Bottom.

Mr. Rask's first salary was $10 a month. That was in 1895 when he became a messenger in the Security Savings bank of this city. He has followed this profession almost constantly, excepting only that lapse of time which he employed following his country's flag during the Spanish American war. Having natural talent he quickly absorbed not only the details of the banking business but sound ideas affecting the conduct of banks along safe but progressive lines. He is now cashier of the First National Bank, of Blooming Prairie, where he has also other business interests in relation to which he has been uniformly successful.

SAM A. RASK

Former La Crosse Banker Now Resident of Blooming Prairie, Who Is a Candidate for Minnesota Senate.

He Defied Death.

Leaving the business he was engaged in in Minneapolis, Mr. Rask answered his country's call by engaging in the Spanish American war as a member of Company F, First Minnesota National Guard, to which he at that time belonged. He was one of the first to answer the call for volunteers, and was made a corporal in Company F of the Thirteenth Volunteer Infantry. At Camp Merritt San Francisco, he was stricken with spinal meningitis and nothing but an indomitable will power saved his life. The doctors gave him up, but he upset their plans by struggling through nine months of illness such as few men have survived. Grit did it, and in his triumph over death in a far off state Sam Rask exemplified that characteristic in his make-up which enabled him to attain success in all that he has undertaken.

His People Trust Him.

The nomination of Mr. Rask by the republicans of his district indicates that in his Minnesota home he has inspired the same confidence and good will that he enjoyed in La Crosse. He retains the strong friendships and the deep esteem that were his while living here and for this reason the outcome of his contest for election is being watched here with an interest not less than that with which his constituents to be in Minnesota are watching. In La Crosse citizens know Mr. Rask has capability, morality, integrity, industry and ambition, and is dominated by a broad liberality and a sense of the fitness of things that will render him a valuable member of the legislature. They know something of the onditions that prevail in the Minnesota legislature, and they feel that in addition to giving able representation to his own district, Mr. Rask will exert a strong influence for the general good of the state. That this is equally appreciated at Blooming Prairie is witnessed by the cordial and earnest support he is receiving there. A good soldier, a good business man, a good citizen, a student of men and affairs, armed with wide experience indeed for one of his years, his election should be a foregone conclusion.

GIRLS GET THEIR TRESSES MIXED

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 4.—(Special.)—With but a few minutes to dress and in the darkness of their Pullman berth at that—the unlucky lower 7 again—two young women carelessly exchanged bunches of their surplus hair with the result that fellow passengers, street car conductors, pedestrians and hotel patrons participated in the resulting hilarity that became almost a riot. A hasty glance into a convenient mirror at the St. Elmo hotel revealed the cause of it all and the two girls, covered with confusion, hastily withdrew to the seclusion of their own rooms.

One was a pronounced brunette, whiles the other was a striking blonde. Both were weary when they retired on the North Bank train bound for Portland and they were awakened only 30 minutes before the time of arrival in the morning. Naturally, the dressing room was full and running over and they dressed as best they could in their berth. The dark girl grabbed a handful of light tresses that go to make up curls and puffs and added them to her own dark hair. The blonde took what was left, not noticing the difference. They then emerged into the light of day.

The porter grinned, fellow passengers in alighting got a hearty laugh, the crowd about the Union station shook with mirth and street car companions could not keep from smiling outright. Arrived at the hotel, the entrance of the two girls was attended by smiles and snickers and then one of the pair looked into a mirror.

The two fled for the elevator and did not reappear until late in the evening, when their tresses, from all outward appearances were of natural growth.

LEVI BANCROFT STARTS ACTION

Supreme Court Grants Injunction to Keep Crownhart Off of the Ticket

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 5.—An injunction granted by the supreme court which restrains Secretary of State Frear from putting on the election ballots, which he is to send to the county clerks, the name of Charles H. Crownhart, as republican nominee for attorney general, has been served upon Mr. Frear.

The injunction was obtained by Olin & Butler, attorneys for Levi H. Bancroft, who ran second in the primary contest over the nomination for attorney general. Frank T. Tucker, for whose name the largest number of votes was cast, died several days prior to the primary election.

Mr. Bancroft's attorneys claim that he received the largest number of votes cast for "any person" and that he is entitled to have his name placed on the republican ballot. This raises the question of the validity of the votes cast for the name of Frank T. Tucker.

Mr. Bancroft, it is said, will claim that, inasmuch as Mr. Tucker was dead at the time, he was not "a person" in the eyes of the law.

The petition for the injunction makes a point of the telegrams which Mr. Crownhart, while manager of Senator La Follette's campaign, sent to progressive republicans in all parts of the state urging them to vote for Mr. Tucker, although the latter was dead at the time.

Walter D. Corrigan, Milwaukee, who has examined the law, is here looking after the interests of Mr. Crownhart, who was named for attorney general by the republican state central committee at a meeting held in Milwaukee Tuesday afternoon.

It is said that the only case bearing upon the question which is raised in Wisconsin, is a decision of the Missouri supreme court which held that the fact that the election for a seat in one of the legislative bodies of St. Louis went to a man who was known to be dead, prevented the candidate receiving the second highest number of votes from claiming the position. The electorate, the court held in that case, showed intelligence by voting for a dead man, and adopted the only available course to defeat the man who unsuccessfully made claim to the office.

It is expected that the Bancroft case will be placed upon the next assignment of cases for argument before the supreme court and that a decision will be rendered in order to have the ballots printed in time for distribution throughout the state.

Secretary of State Frear will be represented in the proceeding by Attorney General Gilbert.

Hanna's Petition Granted

T. H. Hanna, democratic candidate for state senator from the Portage-Waupaca district, was granted permission to bring action against the secretary of state to compel the certifying of his name as the regular candidate on the democratic ticket. He also failed to secure the number of votes required by the 20 per cent clause.

Lawrence E. McGreal, democratic candidate for sheriff of Milwaukee county and other democratic candidates of that county, who failed to receive the required number of votes, were granted permission to bring action to compel the board of canvassers of the county to certify their names as regular candidates on the democratic ticket in the regular election.

The exact date for these hearings is not known but they were placed last on the calendar for this sitting.

Hedger Decision Withheld

It had been expected that a decision would be given in the Hedger murder case, but no reference was made to it in the list of decisions, and it is believed now that no decision will be given during this session of the court.

CHAMPION STILL LEADS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—When the 18.1 championship contest between Willie Hoppe and Ora Morningstar is resumed tonight the champion will still have a commanding lead, the score standing 800 to 567. Last night's game resulted in a decisive victory for Hoppe.

MILWAUKEEANS TO HELP JOHN DIETZ

Dr. George Kleinschmidt and Party of Sharpshooters, Go to Winter

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 5.—Armed with repeating rifles and shotguns, prepared to battle for the liberty of John Dietz, Dr. George Kleinschmidt and a company of sharpshooters left Milwaukee last night for Rice Lake, where they will proceed to Winter and fight for freedom of Dietz.

Preparations were made for the trip yesterday afternoon, and the doctor and his friends donned their hunting clothes, and heavy boots, and prepared for a long sojourn in the woods about Winter, where Mr. Dietz holds the force of deputy sheriffs at bay.

Huge lumberjacks, sailors, well dressed clerks and laborers, with the marks of their day's toil on them, straggled in by twos and threes, all prepared to join Dr. Kleinschmidt in his efforts.

Every man among those who volunteered last night was ready to fight to the death to save John Dietz and his family from the cordon of armed sheriffs about his home.

It is believed that Dr. George Kleinschmidt is the mysterious author of telegrams received in Winter offering aid to Dietz.

"Send word to John Dietz to hold the fort. Reinforcements coming from Milwaukee. Expenses paid."

This telegram was signed "George Sch" and "George K." which is believed to have been an abbreviation of Dr. Kleinschmidt's name.

FREEBORN COUNTY IS FOR ANDERSON

ALBERT LEA, Minn., Oct. 5. — The various candidates nominated by the republicans at the recent primaries decided on an aggressive campaign. The following officers were chosen: Chairman, H. J. Harm; secretary, Oscar Subby; treasurer, J. P. Hurley. As former enator T. V. Knatvold has been selected as a member of the executive committee and as Editor Hurley is to handle the cash, it will be seen the party is harmonious and all are to push forward to success in November. But few republicans here will follow Mr. Tawney in his bolt of Sydney Anderson.

Our idea of a total failure is a man who fails in an attempt to commit suicide.

What Every Woman Ought to Know

Every woman knows that nothing is more annoying or reflects more upon her reputation as a careful housekeeper than rats, mice, cockroaches, water bugs, etc., in the house.

Every woman should know of the reliable exterminator for all vermin of this nature—Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste. This paste is ready for use and drives rats and mice out of the house to die. Put in sinks and on shelves at night, cockroaches and water bugs are dead in the morning.

Money refunded if it fails. 2 ounce box, 25c—16 ounce box, $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere, or sent express prepaid on receipt of price.

"Y" MEMBERSHIP WORK EXTENDED

Ten Days More in which Members will Hustle; Meeting of Night School Students

The membership campaign, which was organized by the Y. M.C. A. last month and which was to have closed October 1, has been extended for another ten days, owing to the fact that the business rush in the city during fair week and other conflicting activities prevented the majority of the workers from cleaning up their apportionment of members to be secured. The outlook for a large membership this year is very favorable, there being more members in the association now than there were a month later one year ago.

The gymnasium classes are now in full swing and all are taking a hold with unusual enthusiasm. Physical Director Boyd has organized a new Leaders' corps, to assist in conducting the classes this year. There will be twelve in the Senior Leaders' corps, which will meet every Tuesday night for special instruction. A most up-to-date punching bag platform has been ordered and will be installed as soon as it arrives from the east.

Night School Meeting

The night school students enrolled for work this coming year are asked to meet at the association rooms tomorrow, Thursday, evening at eight o'clock to arrange to begin class work next week. The enrollment in the mechanical drawing class and in the class of English for foreigners is nearly complete and only a few more can be taken in these classes this year. The mechanical drawing class wil be under the supervision of Mr. C R. Pieper of the Vote-Berger company, and the English for foreigners' class will again be in charge of Miss F. E. Prescott. The enrollment in the other classes is fair and will undoubtedly fill up by the time class work starts next week.

Plans are under way for the organization of a Male Glee club in the association among the association members, and a meeting will be held in about a week or ten days to perfect the organization. It will be under the leadership of Prof. James R. Kerr.

FRATERNAL RESERVE GIVES A MUSICAL

At the regular meeting of the Fraternal Reserve, Thursday evening, Oct. 6th, the first large class of the season will be taken into the order. After enjoying a period of rest during the hot spell of the summer months, the council is now ready, with renewed activity for the fall and winter campaign and District Manager A. C. Radke, announces that the outlook is the most encouraging for the prosperity of the council since its organization in the city. With the new members that are being taken in the order at each meeting and the fine series of social events that have been planned for the future, the fall and winter season will be a hummer. From the advance sale of tickets for the first big ball at Linkers' hall, Oct. 13th, it is assumed that this will be one of the big social events of the season. At the Thursday night meeting the following musical program will be given by the following members.

Vocal solo, selected—Emil Neimeyer.

Cornet and trombone duet—Drake brothers.

Vocal solo, "A Gipsy Maiden I"—Etta Nesler.

Chauncey Olcott melodies—Mandolin trio.

Vocal solo, selected—Emil Neimeyer.

After the program the members will enjoy their private social dancing party until twelve o'clock.

MAKES STOMACH TROUBLE VANISH

Indigestion, Gas, Sourness, Heartburn and Dyspepsia go and you feel fine in five minutes.

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of Stomach trouble and Indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of Gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and Dizziness. and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous ordors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of Indigestion and Upset Stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take Gas from Stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one single does will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember, if your stomach feels out of order and uncomfortable now, you can get relief in five minutes.

HILARITY CAUSE OF THE TRAGEDY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The naval board investigating Saturday night's Hudson river tragedy in which it is believed 25 sailors were drowned while returning from shore leave, will report that hilarious spirits of the sailors were responsible for the overturning of the launch.

None of the bodies of the New Hampshire victims has yet been recovered. Fourteen of the missing sailors have reported, which cuts down the list of probable dead to 25.

Midshipman Chevalier, of the tragedy, by reason of his work in rescuing a dozen men, will be the last man called before the board of inquiry. Chevalier will likely be given a medal of honor.

LEARN TO BREED THE WYANDOTTES

Poultry Fanciers Hold a Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Last Evening

The largest and most enthusiastic meeting of poultry fanciers ever held in La Crosse was that of the Western Wisconsin Poultry Association last evening in the new rooms over 120 North Third street. It had been announced that "Wyandottes" would be the topic for discussion and some very interesting and instructive talks were given. Several birds of this breed, including the White and the Silver varieties, were brought to the meeting to work upon. C. F. Lang led the discussion and some interesting points with reference to the breeding and mating of these varieties were brought out.

Many new members were taken into the association last evening and much enthusiasm was shown in the coming show of the association to be held in December. The president announced that about 20 silver cups have been donated by various business men and others to be offered to the winners at the show. It is expected that the premium list will be ready for distribution November 1st.

The following fanciers attended last evening's meeting. George F. Jacobs, A. E. Parkinson, F. L. Smith, C. J. Sleer, Joseph Giefer, Gyle Whipple, T. Thatro, George Hayek, H. Willsie, Robert Engelke, A. C. Meister, C. A. Thomas, C. F. Lang, D. Drummond, Earl Weber, H. J. Rogers of Stoddard, Wis., J. G. Whitney, F. Poley, S. P. Markle, J. C. Becker, Dr. C. D. Maine, William Reid, William McMann, M. Jensen, L. Jensen, A. Arenz, J. E. Bott, Julius Kircheis, A. J. Freybleh, J. M. Reuter, Joseph H. Poehling, Albert Smith and H. G. Poehling.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks when Barred Plymouth Rocks will be the subject for discussion.

"KILL" EIGHTY PER CENT OF PICTURES

That eighty per cent of the moving pictures manufactured are turned down by the censorship board is a fact not generally known to the public.

Every film manufactured, and there are many, must receive the O. K. of this censorship board before they are put before the public and eighty per cent of the pictures are destroyed because of some scene that may have a tendency to effect the morals of the younger generation.

The Board of Censorship does a national work, inspecting moving pictures before they are placed on the market. When a picture is condemned, or a change is made, this verdict is made effective for every copy of the picture shown in the entire country. The Board of Censorship has correspondents in cities throughout the country, who receive weekly bulletins from the board and are thus able to notify the board in any case where its verdict has not been put into effect.

FAVOR INCREASE IN FIREMEN'S PAY

The members of the city fire department will receive an increase in pay if the recommendation of the committees on finance and ordinance is adopted by the common council. Last evening the ordinance providing for the increase of the salaries of the firemen, was considered, but the committees did not recommend the granting of the scale of wages as provided in the ordinance which has received its first and second reading. The wage scale has been somewhat amended but provides for a substantial increase for all members of the department.

TAILORS' STRIKE IS NOW SETTLED

All differences between the tailors and the journeymen tailors of the city have been adjusted, the demands of the union being granted by all dealers, who employ union men. The demand was for an increase of 15 per cent on each garment made and this was granted. Union tailors are all employed at piecework, thus the increase granted will materially add to their salaries.

Honesty may be the best policy, but just look at the big dividends some insurance companies pay!

CAMPAIGN AGAINST SPEED FIENDS ON

Police Determine to Put a Stop to Auto Scorching, and Two Arrests Result

Imitators of Barney Oldfield got a setback last night when the police started out to enforce the anti-speed law.

As a result of the active work of Officer Frank Wolfe, Frank Dietz and John Hofwebber this morning paid fines of $10 and costs each, amounting to about $14, for burning up the ground.

It was while Oficer Wolfe was chasing Hofwebber that Dietz was caught.

MORE JOKES ON MME. CAVALIERI

COBHAM, Va., Oct. 5.—After naming a young Berkshire boar after Prince Dolgorouki, John Armstrong Chaloner, alienated brother of "Sheriff Bob" Chanler, found so much pleasure in the joke that he notified many of his friends by telegraph of the arrival of Dolgorouki. The originator of the phrase "Whose looney now," says he is having his inning of fun at the expense of the members of his family, who had him declared insane in New York though he is legally sane in Virginia.

In his telegrams to his friends today Chaloner said:

"Foremost in the 'get' of artful master stands Dolgorouki, a solid boar. His name is not yet in the Berkshire book because he is a new comer, but Dolgorouki may be seen at the Merry Mills."

Chaloner, whose place here is called the Merry Mills, is exhibiting his Berkshires at the state fair at Richmond and to call attention to his joke on the Russian prince who is said to have won Lina Cavalieri's affection from Sheriff Bob he placed advertisements in the Richmond papers today.

BARGE IS BEACHED

LUDINGTON, Mich., Oct. 5.—The barge Reynolds was run on the beach five miles north of here in a sinking condition early today. The car ferry Pere Marquette No. 4, government boat Tuscarora, fire tub Short of Ludington and tug Mann of Manistee, all gave assistance.

The life savers from Point au Sable are standing by to take off the crew if necessary but the sea is not heavy.

Many a man's success leaves a bitter taste in the mouths of his associates.

There are times when we should be thankful if we fail to get justice.

CONDITION TODAY REMAINS THE SAME

The condition of George H. Ray remains the same today. This morning he was resting easily after a good night and the patient was able to partake of nourishment. No material change is reported today, however.

Everybody Loves A Good Story

Cosmopolitan Magazine has a nation-wide reputation as the one magazine where you can find the best fiction. If you want a laugh story, Cosmopolitan always has one for you. If you want a tear story, you will find one in every issue of the Cosmopolitan.

You find these "best" stories in Cosmopolitan, because we have secured the best writers for you. You know Alfred Henry Lewis's "Wolfville Stories." They are the ones that made him famous from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and indeed even in Europe. He is continuing these "Wolfville Stories" in the Cosmopolitan.

You remember George Randolph Chester, who, in the form of fiction, warned you against the thousand and one "get-rich-quick" schemes that clever, plausible tricksters are trying to catch the unwary with. Six more of these have been written for the Cosmopolitan. They are interesting and fascinating as fiction and absolutely accurate as to the facts they contain.

Jacques Futrelle is writing a new series of adventure stories, creating a new detective character far better than Sir A. Conan Doyle's famous Sherlock Holmes. In dash and exciting interest this Futrelle detective and the parts he plays make stories that are absolutely breathless.

Other fiction writers have also been secured to write for the Cosmopolitan:

O. Henry, Sir Gilbert Parker,
Henry Rowland, Jack London,
Agnes and Edgerton Castle, B. G. Wodehouse,
Emory Pottle, Lida Calvert Hall,
Porter Emerson Brown, and a score more.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Price movements were confined within a narrow range at the opening of the stock market today and were about equally divided between and losses and gains.

11 a. m.—In the late forenoon the tone was generally firm with prices of the majority of issues traded in showing some amount of gain.

Government bonds unchanged; others firm.

Noon—After the early irregularity the market settled down to a quiet but steady tone and at midday prices were fully as good as the opening.

2 p. m.—The weakness that developed in the late forenoon became more pronounced after midday and the more important stocks sold down sharply.

The stock market closed weak.

Oats—No. 3 white, 33 to 33¾; No. 3 white, 31½ to 32¾; standard, 34 to 34½.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The wheat market today opened with sales at 97¼ and up to 97⅝ cents for December and $1.03 to ½ to $1.03⅝ May. This was on a little belated covering by local shorts and some buying for buy account. The strength lasted but a few minutes and half an hour later the market was back to 97 cents for December and $1.03 for May.

The corn market was affected by the wet weather map, which at most could do little more than delay marketing. The May option sold 53 to 53¼ and a half hour later had a break of 1 cent to 52¼ cents. Brokers said the market seemed to break of its own weight.

Oats started higher but prices broke sharply afterward. The losses, however, were but fractional and the trading quiet.

The cereals closed about at the opening price with the exception of wheat which was about a cent higher. Provisions were higher.

"ELEVEN TWENTY-TWO. BOO TO YOU!"

Say It Loud and Quick to a Reader of Popular Fiction and Watch Him Jump

LATEST SLANG PHRASE

If anybody says to you real suddenlike, "Eleven Twenty-two!" your cue is to let out a yell.

It's the latest slang turn. Every now and then some number combination breaks into slangology. A few years back it was "Four Eleven Forty-four"—an invocation to the goddess of luck adapted from the ancient and honorable game of craps. Then came "Twenty-three," swiped from the telegraph code to indicate that you were to get off the wire, clear out, vamoose, take to the woods or to the tall grass—in short, skidoo.

"Eleven Twenty-two" is the latest. It's more baffling and mysterious than its predecessors, because nobody knows what it means—except the man who reads popular fiction. But at least it is a signal of terror, fright and alarm.

Yes, popular fiction gave this remarkable contribution to slang—the most popular fiction going, which is to say Mary Roberts Rinehart's latest novel, "The Window at the White Cat."

"Eleven Twenty-two" is the key to the most perplexing, absorbing and desperately exciting mystery which Mrs. Rinehart has constructed. Written on little slips of paper found in strange and unexpected places, it crops up at every stage of the story to bewilder the amateur and professional detectives who are trying to ferret out the double mystery of the murder of the state treasurer and the disappearance of Miss Jane. It is pinned to pillow cases, tucked in pocketbooks, thrust into a hole in the wall. "The numbers have pursued me," wrote Fleming just before he was shot through the head. The numbers certainly pursue the reader. Here are a few of the conjectures made by characters in "The Window at the White Cat" as to the meaning of the numerical clue. Of course, Mrs. Rinehart, who gets fun out of everything, gets fun out of this. And of course everyone guesses wrong:

$1,122.00.

The eleventh and twenty-second letters of the alphabet, K-V, or the Latin cave, meaning "beware."

A telephone call.

An automobile license.

The 22d of November.

The time the theater train leaves Bellwood for Pittsburg.

The price for which Fleming sold the pearls.

Miss Letitia Maitland, the delightful old maid who supplies much of the comedy of "The Window at the White Cat," offers the most remarkable explanation. "In the last ten years," says she, "the Colored Orphans' Home has cared for, fed, clothed and pampered exactly eleven hundred and twenty-two colored children, of every condition of shape and misshape, brains and no brains."

Some folks are saying that the book should have been called "Eleven Twenty-two" instead of "The Window at the White Cat."

National League

Pittsburg in St. Louis.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Philadelphia took advantage of Boston's errors on Tuesday and won the game, 3 to 1. The home team this season defeated Boston eighteen times out of twenty-two games. Wagner of Boston was put out of the game for disputing a decision by Umpire Connelly. Score:

Boston .....000100000—1
Philadelphia .....20000010x—3

New York 8, Washington 5

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—In a long drawn out game, New York defeated Washington, 8 to 5. Knight's all around work was the feature of the contest. He fielded brilliantly and cleared the bases in the sixth inning with a double. Score:

Washington .....001012100—5
New York .....13001200x—8

PITCHER SUSPENDED BY MANAGER DOOIN

George McQuillan

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — George McQuillan, one of the great pitchers in the major leagues, has been suspended by Manager Dooin of the Phillies and it is unlikely that he will not be allowed to pitch for the team again this season. In fact, he may never twirl another game while Dooin is manager.

FOUR STARTERS IN AEROPLANE RACE

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—That four aeroplanes will start in the $30,000 race from Chicago to New York is positively asserted. Three of the machines will be Wright bi-planes and will be driven by their experts. Augustus Post will be the fourth starter in a machine of his own make.

Every effort is being made to perspade Glen H. Curtiss to drive one of his own machines. In case Curtiss does not start one of his machines will be offered to James Bradley, the well known English aviator, in case the latter's Bleriot monoplane does not arrive in time.

Bradley is anxious to make the flight in his own machine. The Bleriot is noted for its speed.

With favorable weather condition everything will be in readiness for Saturday's flight.

But eleven relay stations have been decided on so far but others will probably be added to the list before Saturday. The official stations so far reported are La Porte, Elkhart, Waterloo, Strycker, Toledo, Cleveland, Erie, Buffalo, Rochester, Albany and 125th street, New York city. Other points which will probably be added are Norwalk, Elyria, Paynesville, Conneaut, Brockton and Clyde, Syracuse, Oneida, Utca, Pala-Clyde, Syracuse, Oneida, Utica, Pala-Keepskill.

THREE MIDWEEK GAMES TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Only three of the big colleges will get into the meetings today, Yale, Princeton and Pennsylvania have contests scheduled.

The Tigers will clash with the fast Villa Nova team, and the latter are out to twist knots in the Tigers' tail. They held the Indians to a nothing to nothing game last week and therefore are expected to make a good showing this afternoon.

Today's are the last midweek games schedued for this season. Harvard and Cornell played their last midweek games last week and the ambridge team is busy getting ready for Williams on Saturday. Besides the Princeton-Villa Nova contests there are several other games which will test the strength of the big colleges.

ODDS 10 TO 8 ON THE CUBS TODAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Betting on the result of the world's championship baseball series was booming in Chicago with odds at 10 to 8 on the Cubs. The betting opened at 10 to 6 several days ago, but after the injury to Johnny Evers the odds shifted.

Several big bets have been laid at this early date but the bulk of the money will probably be held up for a time yet as the plungers are in hopes of getting even money on the Cubs.

Philadelphia will be flooded with Cub money before the first game of the season opens there.

PRACTICE ON FOR BIG "SLAUGHTER"

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Practice for the grand prix auto race, to be run over the motor parkway on Oct. 15 began today.

There are no restrictions of any kind on the cars eligible for this race and consequently faster time is expected than was made in the recent Vanderbilt cup race. The three big Benz cars have been barred because of the company's criticism of the Vanderbilt cup race.

SULLIVAN TO COACH ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Catcher Billy Sullivan, of the White Sox, will coach the Philadelphia team during the world series. Sullivan will help out Street and Ainsworth in the receiving end in the game but his knowledge of the style of the play of the Cubs is probably what attracted Conny Mack.

Eleven of the present Cub players took part in the series in 1906 and Sullivan has caught behind every one of the present squad with the exception of Zimmerman.

JOHNSON TO RACE OLDFIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Jack Johnson advises today from Albany that he will come here Saturday and will arrange for his race with Oldfield. Oldfield is racing this week at the state at Springfield, Ill. He has wired his acceptance of the conditions. The race will be pulled off at the Sheepshead Bay race track on Oct. 25.

FLANIGAN LEAVES

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A crimp was put in the Irish-American club's aspirations when John Flanagan announced that he would sail for Ireland Saturday.

The club had banked on Flanagan to score at least 10 points at the A. A. U. meeting at New Orleans a week from Saturday.

PALMER NEW STAR

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—A new star lightweight is fixed in the pugilistic tournament today in the person of Fred Palmer, the clever pug who last night went twelve rounds to a draw with Billy Moore.

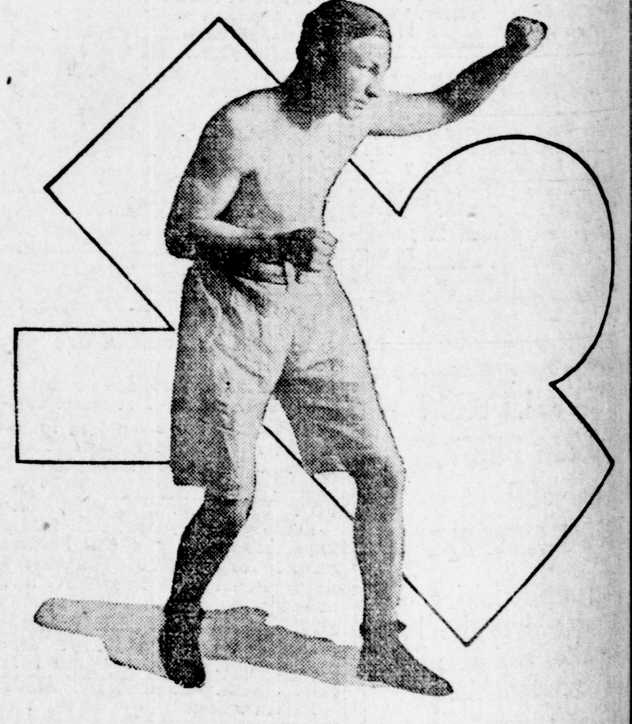

Although the bout went to the limit it was a rather tame affair.

MUST EXAMINE PASENGERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Because of the case of cholera on the steamer Sant Anna, and the assertion of the doctors at Swinburn Island that Maozin Scobain, who arrived on the Germania a week ago, also died of the dread malady, health authorities here declared today that all passengers arriving from Italy hereafter be sent to Anna Island to be examined.

An average man never gets more than average pay.

A CLEVER LITTLE BOXER

JOHNNY FRAYNE

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Johnny Frayne, the clever little San Francisco lightweight, has arrived here in company with his new manager, Charles G. White. Frayne has signed up to meet Harlem Tommy Murphy in a ten round bout before Tommy Walsh's Crescent City club on the night of October 1.
